

MEXICANS WON'T FIGHT UNLESS ATTACKED. ENVOY TELLS LATIN DIPLOMATS

CARRANZA AMBASSADOR AT CAPITAL SEEKS TO GAIN SYMPATHY OF SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

NO CAUSE AT CARRIZAL

Reports Forwarded by General Pershing Indicate That Clash on Wednesday Was Unprovoked.—Further Details Awaited.

Washington, June 23.—Eusebio Arredondo, Mexican ambassador designate, today personally informed diplomatic representatives of South and Central American republics that Carranza troops in the state of Chihuahua were under orders not to attack American troops unless Americans assumed the aggressive.

Mr. Arredondo stated he acted on instructions from his foreign office. When asked whether the warning of General Trevino, the Carranza commander at Chihuahua, that he would attack any force moving east, west or south, had been rescinded, he said his instructions made no mention of that matter.

After a cabinet meeting that lasted nearly two hours, Secretary Lansing said there had been no change in the situation, and that a complete report of the Carrizal incident still was awaited.

The report which was taken to the White House earlier in the day and afterward laid before the cabinet, told substantially the same story carried in border press dispatches last night. It said the Mexican troops opened fire with a machine gun after a twenty-minute conference between Captain Boyd of C. Troop, tenth cavalry, commanding the detachment, and General Gomez, the commander at Carrizal.

San Antonio, June 23.—General Funston awaited today further details from General Pershing of the attack near Carrizal by a force of Mexicans under General Felix Gomez, on troops of the tenth U. S. cavalry, under Captain Charles Boyd. The final outcome of the battle was not made known in General Pershing's report received at headquarters late last night, nor were any indications given of the number of casualties suffered by the American forces, which had been almost entirely surrounded by a force of Mexican troops. This report, however, stated that several stragglers who made their way back to the main column. These men apparently had been horse holders not actively engaged and had made their escape before the fighting was over.

According to stories told to General Pershing by a Mexican soldier, the attack was entirely unprovoked and was made by a Mexican force who had partly surrounded the Americans under cover of a mist. General Pershing's report stated that the Mexicans had opened fire with machine guns on the American troops, that Captain Boyd dismounted, his command returned the fire, and that the forces under Captain Boyd and Captain Louis F. Morey, joined at Ojo Santo Domingo, on June 22, and proceeded toward Carrizal, arriving within a mile of the town at 7:30 a. m. on June 21. Captain Boyd, the senior commander, ordered a halt at that point, and sent a courier to Carrizal asking permission to proceed within a mile of the town. The Mexican commander refused, and while he was making a report a messenger arrived from General Gomez, word that the American troops would be allowed to pass through the town for a party.

Surrounded During Parley.

Before Captain Boyd dispatched an answer to this message General Gomez himself rode out to meet the American commander, accompanied by several members of his staff. While they were talking, according to stragglers, a large number of the Mexican garrison moved out of the town and began firing toward the American forces from all sides, so they were in danger of being surrounded.

Captain Boyd, according to reports, protested emphatically against this move, but that reply was made to this protest by General Gomez is not known by the returning troops. General Gomez retired toward his own line. The moment he reached his men, according to General Pershing, the Mexican garrison fired with machine guns. Captain Boyd immediately dismounted his men, deployed them in skirmishers, and returned the fire. Thereafter, according to the message received by General Funston, the stories of the stragglers end.

Fear Heavy Casualties.

Fear that the casualties suffered by Captain Boyd's command have been heavy was expressed by army officers here and other border communities. It was pointed out that if twelve men had been killed as reported through Mexican sources, it would mean from thirty-five to forty had been wounded according to usual proportions.

Those with the number reported from Chihuahua to have been killed, would account for practically one troop or fifty per cent of the command. From reports available so far, it is by no means certain that Captain Boyd's command was not practically wiped out.

U. S. Guns Command Border.

El Paso, June 23.—American guns commanding the situation at every important border point today. Field artillery has been mounted on hillsides in the larger communities, the noses of their guns pointing south, while in smaller towns machine gun detachments have been stationed. Military authorities here and other border communities, announced every preparation has been made for possible hostilities.

After forty-eight hours the border news dispatches giving the American version of the fight at Carrizal, showing General Pershing's report that it was an unprovoked attack upon Americans, and then lapsed into expectant waiting. The general sentiment ment regards the issue of peace or war with Mexico, hangs upon the reception of the representations in Washington.

When the dispatches were read to General Bell, Jr., commanding the El Paso military district, over the telephone early today, he expressed keen gratification, but said he had received no additional orders from departmental headquarters.

"I knew it," he exclaimed. "I knew our men did not start that fight."

Great apprehension was manifested here for the safety of the seventeen American prisoners, taken in the engagement, who are held by General Trevino in Chihuahua City.

A few of the troops that evacuated Juarez, had returned today, and there were reports that reconcentration of the town by the entire former garrison of 4,000 is contemplated.

Reports current in Mexican circles, that General Alvaro Obregon, Mexican minister of war, has issued a manifesto offering to accept the services of all rebel leaders in the event of hostilities with the United States, found some confirmation in the fact that today a number of Mexicans who were exiled for political reasons, crossed into Juarez.

General Gonzalez declined to discuss these reports other than to say that "any Mexican not an outlier is welcome to his motherland today."

Hope to Avert Break.

Washington, June 23.—Hope persisted among officials here today that against Mexico would not become necessary. Dispatches from Mexico City indicated leaders in the Carranza government may show a similar attitude and will seek to avert the threatened break.

The outlook was far from bright, however, and orders had been issued for the transportation of 10,000 national guardsmen to the border from central and western states as soon as they are ready for service.

Army officers looked today for the delayed report from General Pershing on the fight between Carranza troops and American cavalry at Carrizal Wednesday.

Tension was not lessened by the official report to the navy department that there was no provocation by Americans for the attack on a boat from the submarine Annapolis at Mazatlan Sunday.

The war department was trying to hasten mobilization of state militias today.

Interest was expressed by officials of the war department in an official report that Villa is at Escalon, Chihuahua state, negotiating with the Carranza government for amnesty and a commission in the Mexican army.

Baker at White House.

Secretary Baker called at the White House today for a conference with the president. He said he had no report direct from General Pershing regarding the Carrizal engagement.

TELEPHONE CHIEF OPERATORS IN MEETING AT GRAND HOTEL.

Chief operators and managers of this district of the Wisconsin Telephone company met together yesterday morning and afternoon in meetings at the Grand Hotel. A dinner was served at noon. A. L. Hart, traffic manager of Milwaukee, and Mr. Cash, manager of the local office, were present and gave addresses.

Board of Review: The board of review for the town of Janesville will meet at the office of A. M. Church, town clerk, at ten o'clock Monday, June 26, for the purpose of making adjustments that may be necessary in the assessor's roll.

WILL LEAD TROOPS IF TROUBLE COMES

General Bell.

In the event of an outbreak of hostilities with Mexico, General Bell, the commander of Fort Bliss, Texas, is expected to move across the border, along the tracks of the Mexican Central railway and cut the line south of Villa Ahumada. This would prevent the de facto forces under General Francisco Serrano and General Jacinto Trevino from attacking the American troops at El Valle and Colonia Dublin.

This is the latest picture of General Carranza, to be received in this country. It shows him inspecting a miniature of the latest model field gun designed and constructed by a Mexican engineer.

OBREGON MAPS OUT PLAN OF CAMPAIGN FOR WAR WITH U. S.

Overwhelm Pershing's Forces, Evacuate Border Towns, and Adopt Defensive Tactics, Are Mexican's Proposals.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

El Paso, June 23.—Information obtained by the intelligence department of the United States army is understood to indicate that General Obregon, Carranza's minister of war, and his subordinates have developed a plan of campaign in the event of war against the United States, substantially as follows:

1. The troops of Generals Gaviro, Cavazos, Bertani and other commanders now hemming in General Pershing will make a general attack upon the American expeditionary forces in western Chihuahua, at the same time cutting the line of communications with the border and striving to overwhelm the American army under Pershing before help can reach him.

2. The troops of Generals Gaviro, Cavazos, Bertani and other commanders now hemming in General Pershing will make a general attack upon the American expeditionary forces in western Chihuahua, at the same time cutting the line of communications with the border and striving to overwhelm the American army under Pershing before help can reach him.

3. In the event of too great pressure from the border the Mexican army will gradually fall back along the railroads, which they will destroy, to converge on Chihuahua City, Torreon, and in Sonora to Hermosillo and Guaymas.

4. If the seaports of Tampico, Vera Cruz, and other ports on the Gulf of Mexico are bombarded, as is expected, they will be evacuated, their defenders taking up defensive positions inland.

5. In the event of continued reverses all forces will be able to converge on Mexico City, at the same time throwing out mobile columns for rear attacks and destruction of communication lines behind the American advance.

6. It is the belief of the Carranza government that any American invasion can be halted so thoroughly, if the United States will be willing to discuss peace terms.

7. The total number of names thus far signed to the petition to Governor Philipp that a militia company be established in Janesville is still under the requisite number of sixty-five. It is probable however the number will be materially increased today and Saturday and the list closed by Tuesday of the coming week. One list is in the hands of the city clerk, a second in George Sherman's charge and the third with Fred Rau, town clerk.

8. The intention of those signing to form members of a regularly organized militia company if one is organized in Janesville, is to do so, or is not an enlistment paper in any sense of the word.

FIGHT HAND TO HAND IN THE CHAMPAIGN

New German Offensive Launched and Men Fight With Bayonets.—Verdun a Battle Hell.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, June 23.—The Germans have launched a heavy attack in the Champaign district. Three violent assaults on French trenches in region of Mont Verdun, the crimson carnage, after fighting with grenades and bayonets, according to an official statement issued by the war office today.

West of the Meuse in Verdun section the Germans again attacked Hill 304 and there was lively fighting near Deadman Hill. There was heavy artillery fire all night in this sector. It was particularly violent east of the Meuse, around the Vaux front.

On Russian Front.

Berlin, June 23.—Continued progress for General Von Linsingen's forces in fighting were noted west of Lutetia, despite repeated counterattacks by Russians, was announced by war office today. Russian attacks in direction of Brody, were repulsed.

HARVARD FRESHMEN
WIN IN BOAT RACE

Overtake Yale Crew in Last Half Mile, Snatching Victory in a Brilliant Finish.

Regatta Course, New London, June 23.—The Harvard freshman eight won a thrilling victory over Yale in the two mile race over the Thames course today, in making the Yale men in the last half mile, the crimson oarsmen flashed into the front and slid over the finish line three-quarters of a length ahead of their rivals.

Yale led, until near the finish, when her crew seemed to tire and so pieces. The race was rowed in rough waters. Official time: Harvard, 10:36 3-4; Yale, 10:39.

HOUSE RESOLUTION APPROVES CALLING OF STATE MILITIA

Recognizes That an Emergency Exists Although Republicans Criticize Wilson's Methods.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, June 23.—In an amendment to the Hay resolution authorizing the president to draft into the federal service immediately all national guardsmen willing to take the oath, the house today unanimously declared an emergency now existed, necessitating a call on state troops.

The resolution was adopted unanimously. Hay said the resolution did not contemplate a declaration of war, but a new section of the bill offered by representative Hay and also unanimously adopted, would appropriate not exceeding $1,000,000 for allowances not to exceed $50 a month to dependants of national guardsmen with no other income than the guardsmen pay.

Criticism in Congress.

Former speaker Cannon declared a state of war really existed, and if the president wanted to call it an emergency, when it was a war, that did not change the facts. Representative Fitzgerald of New York criticized the republicans for their attitude.

Representative Green of Vermont, a member of military committee, answered criticism of the resolution. He said as to the complaint of indefiniteness of time of service of guardsmen, that congress held the purse strings and no executive could maintain an army, longer than congress permitted.

Representative Foote republican of Pennsylvania, criticized Wilson for failing to come to congress and frankly lay the facts before it as the war making body. He said the president had acted without advising congress of the facts.

Elmer Duxstad and Price James Have Thrilling and Near Serious Experience at Calomine Yesterday.

Elmer Duxstad, 232 North Terrace street, a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway engineer and Price James, the son of Engineer and Mrs. Thomas James of Plattville, formerly of this city, Duxstad's fireman, escaped death miraculously yesterday when their engine toppled over on its side near Calomine on the Mineral Point division.

Duxstad and James escaped with minor bruises as a result of their experience. They were battered about by a fire from this are suffering no serious effects.

The accident occurred yesterday afternoon two miles east of Calomine. The locomotive first left the rails, ran along the ties for a short distance and then off onto the soft ground where it sunk deeply and finally with a lurched fell and with a thud.

Reports of the accident which reached here this morning do not say as to whether the engine saved themselves by jumping as their locomotive began to topple or whether they went over with it. The first fireman, however, is accepted by railroad men as most likely candidate.

The crew was engaged in switching when the accident occurred. Conductor Edward Pridoux of this city in charge of the train with Jos. Dempsey and Thomas Heagney, also of Janesville as brakemen. The first several cars in the string left the track as they failed to follow the engine in turning. The Milwaukee wrecking crew passed through the wreckage early last night to hoist the engine onto the track.

TO CALL A MEETING

Will Call Conference to Urge War be Averted With Mexico.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, June 23.—A movement to call a conference of Americans and Mexican citizens at El Paso in an effort to avert war with Mexico, was announced today by the American union against militarism. The unions executive committee after an all night session sent telegrams to Wm. Jennings Bryan, David Starr Gordon and Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, urging them to proceed at once to El Paso and offering to defray their expenses which it was stated would be met by a fund to be raised by voluntary contribution from American and Mexican alike. Similar telegrams were sent to prominent Mexicans.

Walsh said he was willing to accept.

JAPAN WILL GIVE NO AID TO MEXICANS

JAPANESE NATION EARNESTLY HOPES ARMED CONFLICT MAY BE AVOIDED, SAYS FOREIGN MINISTER.

NO ARMS OR SUPPLIES

Japanese Munition Companies Are Too Busy Sending Their Output to Europe to Fill Mexican Orders.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokio, June 23.—Of course any claim that the Japanese government will assist Mexicans with munitions and arms is out of the question and absurd," said Baron Ishii, foreign minister to a correspondent of the Associated Press, who asked him today for his views on the Mexican situation.

The interview was sought on account of declarations attributed to Mexicans that assurances had been received from Japan, that munitions and other assistance would be given to Mexico in the event of a war with the United States.

No Arms for Mexico.

"As for private Japanese companies selling arms to Mexicans," the foreign minister continued, "I consider it extremely improbable. As you know all available funds and arms are being furnished to Japan's allies, to assist in bringing the European war to a successful issue. And, I fancy, though I do not know, that munitions may be found their way to China during the revolutionary troubles."

"Let me say this with all the emphasis and earnestness at my command," said the minister, swinging around in his chair, "the Japanese nation sincerely hopes that armed conflict between the United States and Mexico may be avoided. Japan's interest in America, North, Central and South, being essentially pacific and commercial, any event bringing disturbances to the American market, would be keenly felt in Japan."

"The Japanese people are true at a moment when the whole European trade is virtually closed to Japan, and the Chinese market is seriously upset."

Can't Supply Mexicans.

The Mitsui Arms company informed a representative of the Associated Press today that it recently received inquiries from the Mexican government as to whether it could supply munitions and arms. The company replied it was physically impossible, as it had more on hand than it could sell for the allies of Japan.

GEN. TRAVINO PUTS BLAME FOR CRISIS ON U. S. ARMY MEN

Chihuahua City, June 23.—Criticism of American military men who he said have caused all the trouble between Mexico and the United States was made by General Trevino, military commander of the northwest in an interview with the Associated Press today.

General Trevino said that General Scott was evidently wrong when he told the Mexican congress at the meeting in El Paso, that the American military men least of all factors in the United States wished to fight against Mexico.

"The American military has obeyed the orders of its own chiefs, had never respected the feelings or the property of Mexican citizens, and has contemptuously ignored the dispositions of Mexican government," declared the general.

"I do not want war," added Trevino, "and I am doing my utmost to control the situation, but war is forced on the Mexican nation by the Americans. I am both ready and willing to do my duty like every other faithful son, to uphold the honor and dignity of my country."

Officers arriving here today with the body of General Gomez, said that the American leaders had instructed their men to concentrate their fire on the general, who on account of his great bulk was an easy target. They said Gomez was first Mexican to fall with three bullets in his chest.

Mexicans Steal Horses.

Columbus, N. M., June 23.—An unprovoked attack was made by a band of Mexicans who crossed to the American side near Hachita early today and ran off with a number of horses and mules. American troops, according to a dispatch received here, were in chase and crossed into Mexico after them.

MOOSE OF ILLINOIS
HOLD A CONFERENCE

Expected That Progressives Will Unite With Republicans If Ticket Is Satisfactory.

Chicago, June 23.—Illinois progressive leaders, who held a conference here today to discuss the future of the party of the state, apparently favor the plan of amalgamating with the republicans, providing a satisfactory state of state candidates can be agreed upon. A large majority of the leaders favor endorsing Hughes, but on the question of a state ticket there was difference of opinion.

Raymond Robins was the principal speaker at the first session which was held behind closed doors. He said as a result of conferences he had with Colonel Roosevelt and others in the east he was convinced the colored would decline the presidential nomination of progressives and there would be no progressive national ticket put in the field.

He said there was no hope of continuing the bull moose as a national party. He declared Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California, Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and James H. Doolittle of Ohio, whether national leaders, would return to the republican ranks this fall. Robins said he was a democrat before joining the progressives and he would go back to that party.

Chairman Hay Asks That National Guardsmen Be Drafted Into Federal Service.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, June 23.—Immediate action on his resolution authorizing the president to draft into federal service, national guardsmen willing to take the oath under the new army law, was asked in the house today by Chairman Hay of the military committee.

At the same time he offered an amendment to declare that the emergency for the draft now exists instead of leaving the question to be determined by the president.

ORDER STATE GUARDS OUT FOR BORDER

MILITIA WILL START SOUTHWARD AS FAST AS MOBILIZED, IS WORD FROM BAKER.

TO ENTRAIN SHORTLY

Troops Now in Camp Will be Dispatched to Border Points Designated by Funston With All Possible Haste.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, June 23.—Secretary Baker today issued orders to all army departmental commanders to send to the Mexican border, all militia available immediately upon their organization without waiting for the completion of the mobilization of the separate states.

The commanders were requested to notify General Funston when each regiment troop, battery or other unit completes muster. General Funston will indicate where he wishes the forces sent in each instance, and the departmental commander without further instructions from Washington will arrange transportation and send them forward.

Funston Advised.

San Antonio, June 23.—General Funston was advised today of Secretary Baker's decision to send all militia units to the border, as fast as they are available for service. Plans for stationing a large number of troops are in readiness under General Funston's recommendation of several days ago for sending militia to provide an adequate border defense.

Missouri Guards Ready.

Nevada, Mo., June 23.—The Missouri national guard has been ordered to the border tonight. It was announced at the camp this afternoon that each unit will be sent forward as fast as it can be mustered into federal service.

Nebraska Guard Called.

Lincoln, Neb., June 23.—The entire Nebraska National Guard has been called to the border. Governor Morehead admitted here today. It is expected at least 1,200 troops will be ready to move in a few days.

Preparations at Douglas.

Douglas, Ariz., June 23.—Quiet preparations for any and all developments were being completed today by United States military authorities here.

Fire in Juarez.

El Paso, June 23.—The burning of some cars in Juarez early today gave rise to reports that a portion of the town was afire, but apparently was a precaution taken to prevent the rolling stock falling into Mexican hands, in case of a break.

Mexicans Burn Store.

Laredo, Tex., June 23.—The firing of several shots in the business district of Mexican town Laredo, early today caused excitement here until it was learned that the shots were intended as a call for volunteers to extinguish a fire in the business district of the Mexican town. It was reported that a Mexican property owner had set fire to his place of business and was moving out his goods with a view to destroying it, so that it would fall into the American hands in the event American troops took the town. There was a report here today that the defacto government forces may withdraw from Laredo, leaving behind a handful of soldiers in charge of the Mexican garrison there.

Mexicans Steal Horses.

Columbus, N. M., June 23.—An unprovoked attack was made by a band of Mexicans who crossed to the American side near Hachita early today and ran off with a number of horses and mules. American troops, according to a dispatch received here, were in chase and crossed into Mexico after them.

PROSECUTION CLOSES
CASE AGAINST ORPET

State's Testimony Concluded After Reading More of Defendant's Letters to Marian Lambert.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Waukegan, June 23.—The state rested its case against Will H. Orpet, charged with the murder of Marian Lambert, at noon today.

In the course of the session this morning David R. Joslyn of counsel for the prosecution, resumed the reading of Orpet's letters to Marian.

"Keep yourself for me alone," he wrote on May 26, 1915.

The next day he complained: "The only way I could get through my classes today was by thinking there would be a letter from you, but there was none. There is no fun in anything without you. Try to love me, for that means more to me than anything in the world." This letter, like the others, was written from Madison, where Orpet was attending the university.

On the 28th, he acknowledged the receipt of a letter from Marian: "I couldn't tell from your letter whether you are for me or not. What have I done, or failed to do?" he asked.

"Don't write that way, for I can only suffer till another arrives. If you love me, loosen up. I go to hear from you. Make it a good one."

On June 2, he expressed happiness at a "letter from Marian."

"Only about ten days, and I shall see you, and kiss you very much. I am glad you are still good. Keep it up and when I get home we'll take the lid up."

By Nov. 3, after summer vacation, Orpet addressed her merely as "Dear Marian," and spoke of seeing her on Thanksgiving day. "But I suppose you don't care," he wrote.

In this and subsequent letters he had stopped pleading with Marian for warmer expressions of her regard. He expressed the wish to see her, but repeated his conviction that it didn't mean much to her.

"Bull" Durham is Pure all the Way from the Leaf to the Finished Flake

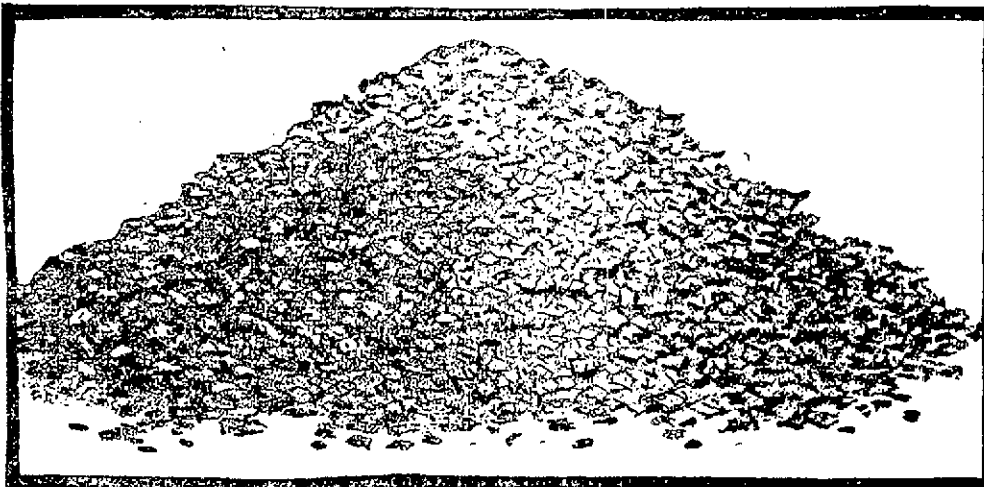

After the leaf for "Bull" Durham Has Passed Through the "Breaker."

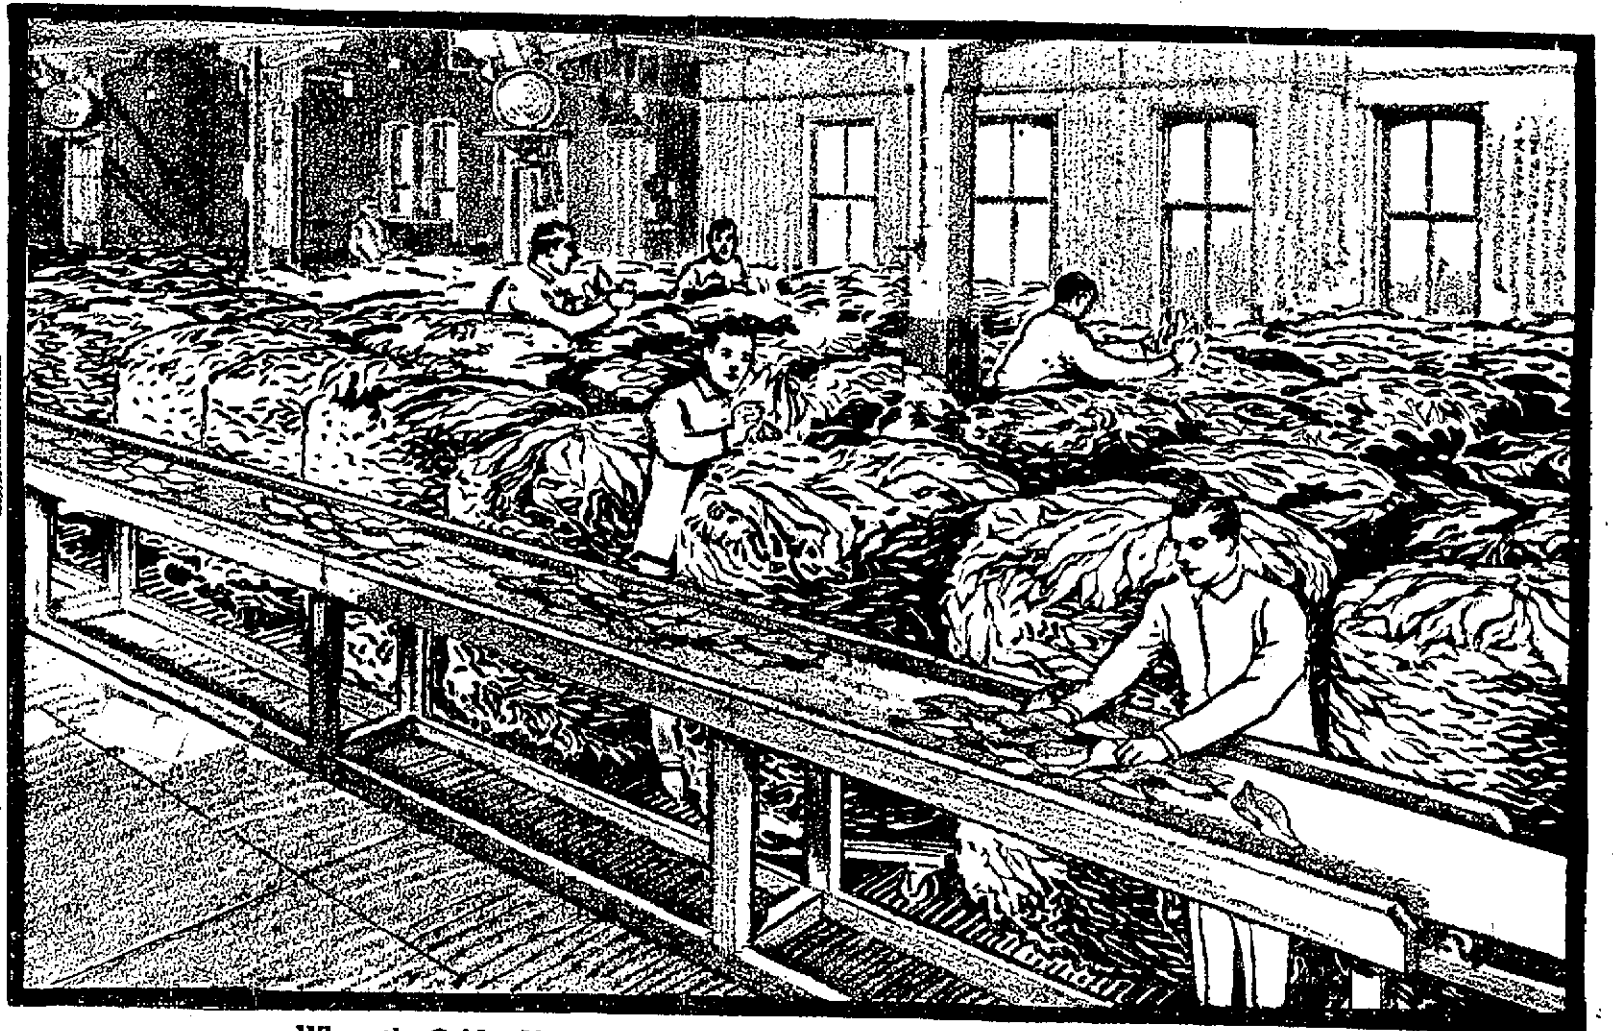

After It Has Passed Through the Third Granulator.

After It Has Passed Through the Tenth and Last Granulator.

After It Has Passed Through the Sieves—the Finished Flake.

Where the Golden Virginia-Carolina Leaf for "Bull" Durham Starts on Its Journey.

Only Pure Virginia-Carolina Leaf Goes Through the "Bull" Durham Manufacturing System—Only Pure Tobacco Comes Out as "Bull" Durham

Grouped about a moving belt on the top floor of the "Bull" Durham factory at Durham, N. C., are giant hogsheads of tobacco leaf—107 of them.

To the eye they show a mass of color—soft, rich, golden—the distinctive, individual, matchless shades that belong solely to famous bright Virginia-Carolina leaf.

Nothing else ever goes into that big room—nothing but this pure, ripe leaf.

From each of the 107 hogsheads a certain quantity is taken and placed on the moving belt.

The hogsheads differ slightly in character. They are of different crops, are raised in different sections, vary somewhat in body and aroma. All the 107 are required to make up the wonderful blend which has made "Bull" Durham the world's best known and best liked cigarette tobacco.

The freight of golden leaf moves forward on the belt to the "breaker," then on into a series of ten granulators, and finally into a system of sieves, coming out three floors below in fragrant flakes of uniform size—the finished "Bull" Durham.

The entire operation of making "Bull" Durham, from the first "breaking" of the leaf to the final sifting of the tiny flakes, is carried on automatically inside a continuous tight-closed wooden flume.

The pure leaf is kept pure. No foreign matter of any kind can get mixed with the tobacco at any stage of its manufacture.

And that's why "Bull" Durham stands every test for purity.

You can test it yourself. Pour some "Bull" Durham on your hand or a piece of paper. Separate the grains—examine them closely. You will find only tiny flakes of pure tobacco—nothing else looks like the golden Virginia-Carolina leaf used in "Bull" Durham.

GENUINE "BULL" DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO

Make the test today—learn to "roll your own" with "Bull" Durham. It's easy—a little practice and you'll get the knack. Then you'll quickly find that money can't buy nor machinery make a cigarette like the one you roll yourself with "Bull" Durham.

FREE

An illustrated Booklet, showing correct way to "Roll Your Own" Cigarettes, and a package of cigarette papers, will both be mailed, free, to any address in United States on request. Address "Bull" Durham, Durham, N. C.

PREPAREDNESS.
General Woods expressed the situation in a nutshell when he stated that even the crack guard organizations of the United States were not prepared to meet the present emergency. Troops are being sent out from their various armories, supposedly thoroughly equipped, but when the actual time comes there will be many things essential to soldier life found missing. It was the same way in '98 when the recruits went on the call of the Governors and President McKinley despite the fact we had a former army officer as secretary of war. Preparedness is half the battle. The United States should be prepared. The men are here. The spirit is here, but unfortunately the flesh of the administration is weak.

JANESVILLE HONORED.
With the appointment of Captain Lorraine T. Richardson, U. S. A., of Janesville, to be commander of the brigade of Wisconsin guardsmen called into federal service, Janesville is honored. While General Richardson has been an officer in the regular army of the United States he has at ways kept a warm spot in his heart for his native city—Janesville—and on his frequent visits here he has renewed his acquaintances of years' standing and made new friendships. In his selection by Governor Philipp to command the troops Wisconsin may be called upon to send to the Mexican border, his friends in Janesville rejoice. He has proved a most efficient officer in the branches of the service his lot has been cast in and his advancement, while perhaps only temporary, is a source of congratulations in which the Gazette unites.

Coming as it does at this time when an attempt is being made to organize a company of infantry in the city, to be a unit of the Wisconsin guard or subject to the governor's orders for actual service, it is particularly significant. Janesville has many men in the regular and volunteer service, but none have reached as high as General Richardson. However, the spirit shown by the young men who are enlisting in the proposed Janesville company speaks well for the future of Janesville's military heroes.

GARDENING HABIT.
It is always with rejoicing that one sees his neighbor laying out a fine garden. In that way one gets a feast of lovely color without backache or expense. Fortunately, it is not the custom in some localities as in foreign countries, to surround houses with high and forbidding walls, or unsightly, half-grown trees. Americans prefer light and low fences, or more commonly none at all. Private lawns become, as far as looking goes, a public park.

A pretty garden goes far to make an otherwise unattractive place seem beautiful. Many of the old-fashioned homes we used to see in our childhood were of themselves bare and ugly. But they were redeemed by their lovely flowers. The beloved varieties there cultivated were never more popular than today. The man who wants his place to acquire distinction and character should raise a flower garden. It will pay double its cost in enhanced value of the homestead, in case he wishes to sell.

The wealthy family that employs hired gardeners does not get the wholesome exercise, nor the satisfaction of creating beauty with its own hands, which is the finest reward of it all. But flowers pay their way, no matter who tends them.

The elaborate and costly garden rejoices both the owner and the poor man who passes by. The latter feels no sentiment of jealousy at this kind of display. He recognizes it as a contribution made to town beauty, a kind of thank offering for the blessings of prosperity.

The most luxuriant gardens are often found around humble cottages, planted by people who seem least able to do the work. They lead simple lives, have no exhausting social duties nor elaborate housekeeping, and they rise early in the morning. It is to them what the golf links is to the man of wealth, and is likewise a generous contribution to community betterment.

ENDORSED HUGHES.
It must have been a bitter pill for those ultra progressives to call a state convention and then after calling it to have to follow instructions and endorse Hughes, the republican nominee for President, even though they failed to mention Vice Presidential Candidate Fairbanks, or the republican platform. They took pains however, to give La Follette a rousing endorsement. Of course, it is understood they could not endorse the republican platform and La Follette in the same breath for the platform condemns the present democratic tariff law and La Follette was one of the two republican senators who voted for it and made it a law.

The nomination of Hutton for the gubernatorial job still leaves a three-cornered battle for the nomination for governor—Phillip-Hutton-McGovern. It would appear as though the so-called progressive convention was merely a La Follette love feast just as expected, and that it began and ended in seeking to bolster up his claims to renomination.

It is really amusing, however, for the progressives, who actually did away with the old style convention, to come back to the system of their own free will and it is probable that this may result in the elimination of this feature of the law by the next legislature. Certainly the primaries have been far from satisfactory of late to the ultra progressives, now that the people have their eyes opened, so something else must be tried.

When you see a scholarly appearing man studying a newspaper very closely, he may not be following intently an argument about international law, but merely trying to grasp the significance of one of those humorous (?) cartoons.

The delegates to the national conventions entertained the delusion that they came there to nominate presidential candidates and then go home, instead of hanging around to provide business for the cities where they met.

As no two people agree what is meant by preparedness, Americanism, and the elimination of the hyphen, all candidates, platforms, and politicians have enthusiastically and resolutely come out for the above named issues.

Some of our statesmen are worried about the possibility of a treasury deficit, while the great mass of people remain serene, confident that no matter how much money is spent, it can always be borrowed.

The attitude of some of our statesmen, considering the size and condition of our army and navy, might be likened to a man with two wooden legs running around with a chip on his shoulder.

Both parties claim credit for the fact that eleven big corporations increased their dividends in one day last week, but no one is ever responsible for dividend reductions.

The man who wrote that the Turks are making the greatest strides in their history probably foresaw the extent of ground they would cover in their retreat.

It is surprising how many families are putting in telephones for business reasons, particularly when there is a girl of counting age in the family.

Many of our citizens would be willing to help on the preparedness movement by standing around and bawling other men digging trenches.

Those palaces of European kings shown in the picture papers look almost as comfortable to live in as an American railroad terminal.

The Old Machine.
I love my old machine, I wrecked it though it often goes wrong;
When it gets good and balky
It makes a line! LIKE THIS.

It is the poorest speller.
And speaks as though in pain;
It has no education,
& can't rife velly PLAIN.

'Twas built in 1880,
When hoopskirts were the rage;
Its shaky, rambling methods
Are due to ITS GRATE AGE!"

I've had it many decades,
And know its every turn,
But I don't mind confessing
ITS ways ARE HARD TO LEARN."

I bought it on installments,
Just when I most forget;
It's all worn out, but listen—
IT ain't ALL sold for yet!"

The Hickeyville Clarion.
Professor E. Pluribus Jenkins, the new superintendent of the Hickeyville schools, will give a moving picture lecture with 4500 feet of film at the school house next Thursday evening, showing the working of the human system and how to reduce the high cost of living. He will show the human stomach running on high speed and digesting breakfast food and again running on secondary speed, digesting corned beef and cabbage. He will also show the effects of whisky on the thorax. Free will offering will be taken and the professor will get enough to pay for printing the handbills if he is lucky. If the professor had lived in our midst very long he would take time by the forelock and charge an admission at the door.

Signs of the Times.
A man out west says it is possible to dress on $50 a year. Yes, and an Eskimo can do it even cheaper than that.

A Newark woman has tried ten times to commit suicide. She might try writing for the magazines and starving to death.

Chicago professor says girls should be taught how to cook. Some men are mighty unreasonable. Next he will say they should learn how to darn a sock.

A West Virginia girl flagged a train last week and prevented a wreck. Fortunately she was an old-fashioned girl and wore a red petticoat.

A New York roof garden is a garden in which they can't raise anything excepting prices.

A Hot One From the Morning Mail.
Readers: I have read most of the things you have to say. I must say I am disgusted for believe you are the most different kinds of people besides coon parlor car porters and tin horned politicians. There is a whole lot of individuals, which you should smite with rears of phat as well as them mentioned. Why don't you say something sassy about the meddles and why don't he wear 'em on his back so the audience kin see 'em all the time instid of on his chest ban exceptin' when he turns to bough. Also roost some of them lines that come around selling mop ringers that don't work wuch a damn. There is a man in this town that sleeps in the graveyard every nite rather than go home. Hand him a blast sometime. Yours respectfully, T. G. P.

I Am Having Remarkable Curative Results in Treating Pyorrhea

Pyorrhea, the incurable gum disease, no more to be considered a life-time sufferer of the loss of your teeth.

Let me tell you how your teeth may be made over, your breath made sweet, your eating stopped, your gums hardened, and your cure effected.

DR. F. T. RICHARDS
Dentist.
(Over Reiberg's.)
All work fully guaranteed.

You Will Never Save

If you put it off until your income is larger than your fancied needs.

Take your own case. Your salary is—say $20 per week. You are saving nothing now because you need all your income for living expenses.

If your income was cut to $15 per week, wouldn't you manage to live on that amount?

Figure that you owe yourself something each week and deposit it in our Savings Department.

In Case of Accident.
A crushed finger should be plunged into water as hot as can possibly be borne. The application of hot water causes the nail to expand and soften and the blood pouring out beneath it has more room to flow; thus the pain is lessened. The finger should then be wrapped in a bread-and-water poultice. A jammed finger should never be neglected, as it may lead to mortification.

George G. Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Arnold of 421 Chatham street is one of the number to go to fight in this trouble with Mexico. He has been a resident of Chicago for some years and is a member of the United States national guard and will go out with the second infantry.

GEORGE McDERMOTT TO WED IVA HILLER

Bride To Be, Age Seventeen, Gets Permission of Parents For Marriage With Prominent Young Man.
George E. McDermott, a local clothing store proprietor, today secured a license to wed Miss Iva Hiller, the daughter of Theodore Hiller of this city. The bride-to-be being but seventeen years of age, her parents' permission to announce their willingness to their daughter's marriage. Mr. McDermott is eleven years her senior. With the issuing of two more licenses today the number of permits granted thus far this year is far in excess of the average at this time in years past.

Close to one hundred and ninety have secured licenses in Rock county this year, an average of almost one license today a day, county thirty days to the month and eliminating the holidays. Others who will wed are: Roy E. Dean of Bradford and Miss Dorothy Wilcox of this city and Andrew C. Anderson and Mabel L. Rounds, both of Beloit.

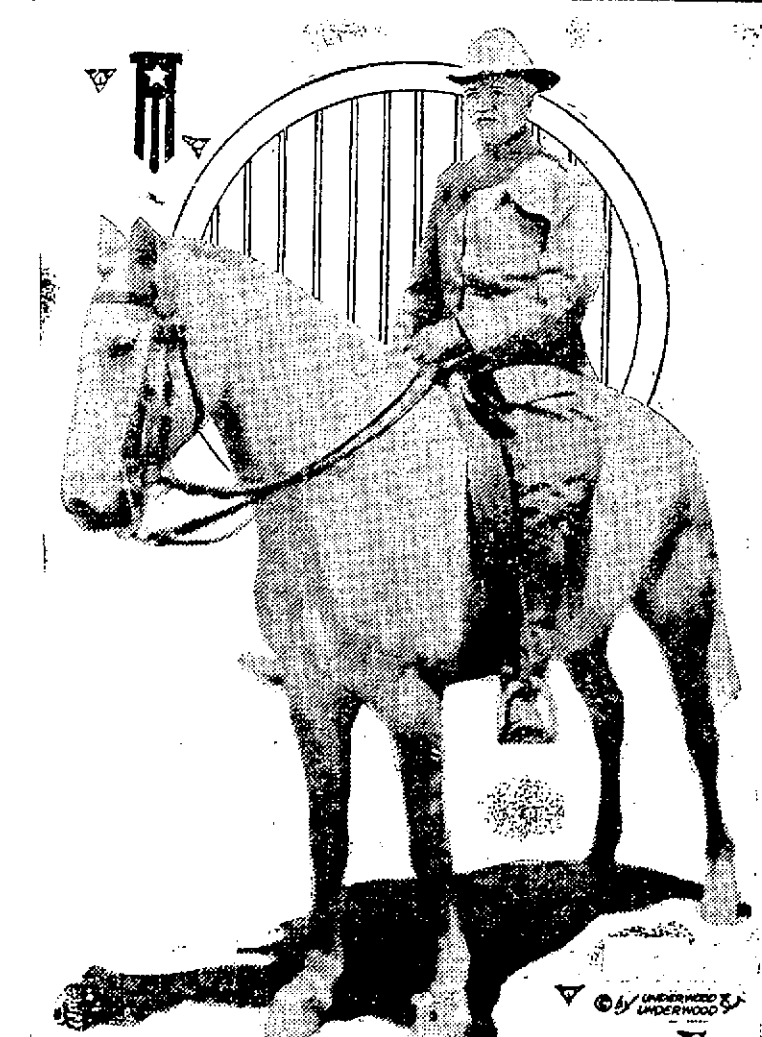

Turks Care Little For Stage.
At Kadi Keni, the ancient Chalcedon, is situated the one and only Turkish theater in or near Constantinople, a rickety, wooden construction capable of accommodating, however, a large number of onlookers. Performances are witnessed only by men, are given three times a week, and take place in broad daylight.

VOTES MAKE HER A POSTMISTRESS

Mrs. McAllister was chosen postmaster at Port Gaines, Ga., recently, after the patrons of the postoffice in that town had taken a vote on three candidates and decided in favor of her. President Wilson took cognizance of the election and confirmed it by naming her for the job.

PERSHING, "THE MAN ON HORSEBACK"

This is a new picture of General J. J. Pershing, the man who is in the saddle in Mexico. Photo was taken this month at General Pershing's headquarters near Nampiqua.

Sword of the Bronze Age.
Some years ago a sword in its sheath, belonging to the bronze age—the only known specimen of its kind in the country—was found in the bed of the Thames off Brentford. It disappeared for some years, but has just been rediscovered among the antiquities bequeathed to the Brentford public library by the late Thomas Layton, F. S. A.—London Observer.

Small Girl's Compliment.
We had recently remodeled our home, making it into bungalow style, having a long, almost steep roof, with bungalow windows in it. A little girl came up to my husband one day and said to him: "My, you've made your house over, haven't you? It looks awfully cute. It looks just like a barn, doesn't it?"—Chicago Tribune.

Never Split Hairs.
"Most bald-headed men are optimists," says an exchange. Come to think of it, we never saw any of 'em split hairs in an argument.

There is an inestimable value to the traveler in carrying his funds in a form that is known and readily accepted by railroad and steamship companies, and cashed by banks everywhere.
"A.B.A." Cheques are known in all countries as the authorized Cheques of the American Bankers Association, and are cashed by 50,000 banks.
Since the only identification required is the countersignature of the owner in the presence of the person cashing or accepting "A.B.A." Cheques, the traveler who carries them is saved much annoyance and many delays.

U. B. ENDEAVORERS OFFICERS ELECTED

Successful State Convention Closes With Session Thursday Morning.

The state convention of United Brethren Christian Endeavor closed Thursday morning with a business session at the Richards Memorial U. B. church, at which the following officers were elected: President, J. H. Truesdale, Gillingham; vice president, William Wheeler, Pine Ridge; secretary, Helen Gillingham, Gillingham; corresponding secretary, Ethel Morton, Richmond Center; treasurer, Guy Kintz, Richmond Center; missionary superintendent, Mrs. Ida Gillingham, Richmond Center; junior superintendent, Alma Perry, Janesville; stewardship superintendent, Mrs. Bradley.

Yesterday's session included a song session by the Junior C. E. of the local church.

Prof. Ross Masters gave a short talk. Prof. Webber delivered an interesting and instructive address on "The Natural Trend of the Human Life," in which he especially commended the boy scout movement, saying that it provided a legitimate outlet for the activities of boyhood.

Miss Drury, who is here to attend the Woman's Missionary association and Otterbrien Guild convention which convenes directly after the close of the C. E. convention, gave a ten minute talk to the children.

WILL GIVE SUNDAY CONCERT AT PARK

Bower City Band Arranges to Give Special Program at Three O'Clock Sunday Afternoon.

The management of the Bower City band announces today that the band would give a special concert program Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the Court House Park. This is the first Sunday band concert which has been given in Janesville in a number of years and will undoubtedly attract a large audience. In case the Sunday concert proves popular it is probable that other Sunday afternoon programs will be given throughout the summer.

TO AWARD CONTRACT FOR PAVING TODAY

The asphalt war will either be ended, or just nicely started, if the city council awards the paving contract at their meeting this afternoon. Mayor James A. Fathers reported this morning that the council intended holding a meeting, and that the only important transaction was the considering of the resolution for the paving contract.

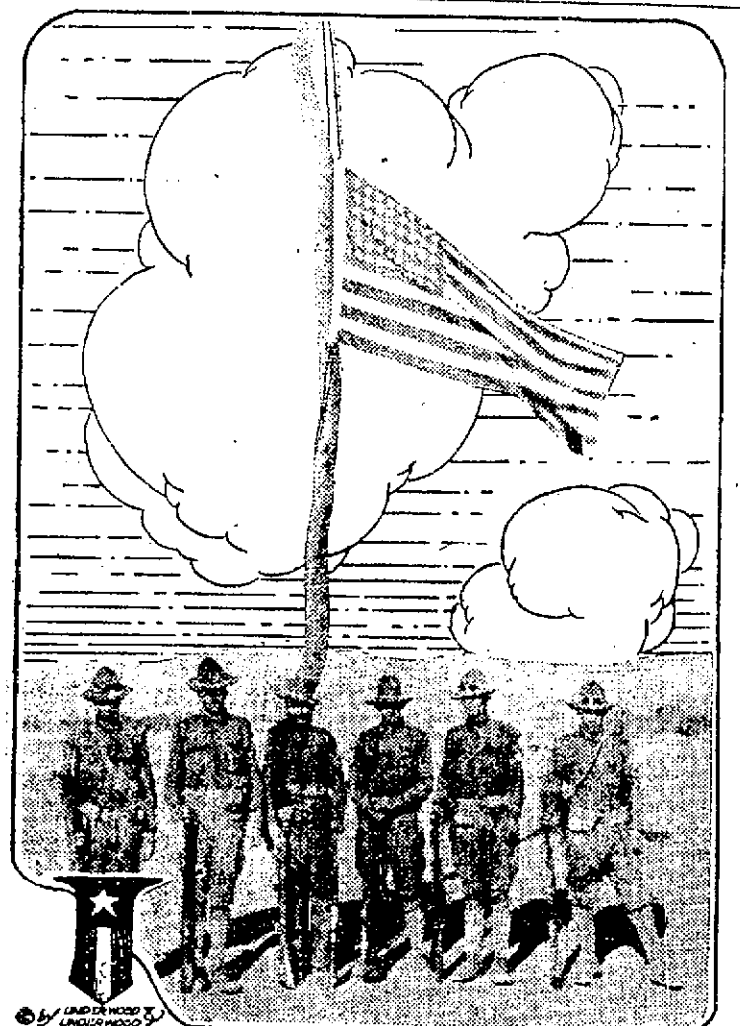

Providing that the contract specifies Bermuda asphalt in place of the Sarcos brand, the council will have two situations to face. One is a peaceful and the desired settlement, that the Sarcos manufacturers will drop their claims, and the other is that they will contest their allegations and demands for the contract, in the court. However, it is expected that the commission council will stand pat and defend their position, in holding that Sarcos is not a natural asphalt in accordance with the specifications.

Preparations are being made for the opening of the city stone crusher by the street department, for supplying material for the paving of Oaklawn avenue and Forest Park boulevard. The contractors will pay the city for the crushed stone, and no material will be obtained for city work, as it is not needed.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Two tremendous moving picture spectacles, "Civilization" and "The Fall of a Nation," now being exhibited in New York, have made that town movie mad. These plays will later be exhibited all over the country.

"Civilization" is the story of a mythic king who seeks war to test a fighting machine to which he has devoted his life. The man upon whom his hopes depend is the inventor, who sinks his marvelous submarine with all aboard for the sake of the woman he loves and a cost of world peace. He wanders through purgatory, and, infused with the spirit of Christ, returns to the world, logically accomplished by his body being washed up by the waves and life returning under restoratives. When he refuses to continue his work, he is cast into prison, and sentenced to death. The king, visiting him, sees the error of his ways and learns the lesson of infinite peace.

DIXON FILM IS CALL FOR PREPARATION

"The Fall of a Nation" was conceived by Thomas Dixon, the famous novelist. It shows how America was destroyed because it was unprepared. He provides a prologue showing the development of the nation which fell, including the drafting of the Declaration of Independence, the questing of Maximilian's career in Mexico, with portraits of Monroe and Lincoln delivering his second inaugural address.

Where "Civilization" pivots on brotherly love, with an imaginary kingdom for locale, "The Fall of a Nation" is propelled by the struggle between imperialism and democracy as it affects our United States. Interwoven with the theme of the helpless nation's decline and fall is the conflict of personalities—Charles Walden (Percy Standing), who betrays his country for a vice royal throne at Washington with title of prince; John Vassar (Arthur Shirley), New York East side congressman, who would have America prepare, and Virginia Holland (Lorraine Huling), pacifist.

Ultimately the technique of the screen will be found more moving than the traditions of the ballet than those of the drama, writes Willard Holcomb. "Both were originally founded upon

"Pudd'nhead Wilson" Tonight

In producing Mark Twain's famous work, "Pudd'nhead Wilson," Jesse L. Lasky made a picture that won hearty approval everywhere. The Apollo is showing it again tonight.

"Pudd'nhead Wilson" occupies a unique place in the annals of American humorous literature. Its story—said to be the first place of fiction which made use of the now familiar fingerprint method as a means of establishing identity—is melodramatic, romantic and suffused with a deep note of human sympathy and interest. "Pudd'nhead" Wilson, the southern lawyer from whom the back takes its title, is a character in American literature, and his crisp sayings will live forever.

No actor of the stage or screen is so well suited to the role of "Pudd'nhead Wilson" as Theodore Roberts, America's leading screen character star. Mr. Roberts brings out the subtle humor of Wilson, who swayed a whole community by his personality during an exciting trial, finally establishing the innocence of a youth unjustly accused. There is a gripping love story through the photoplay.

HATTON WILL LEAD PROGRESSIVE TICKET

MILWAUKEE DELEGATION AT CONFERENCE STANDS SOLID-LY FOR MCGOVERN, BUT FAILS TO WIN.

ENDORSE LA FOLLETTE

Declaration of Principles Sings Praises of Senator McGovern—Endorses Hughes
But Makes No Mention of Fairbanks.

Madison, Wis., June 23.—A conference of progressive republicans to the number of about 400 gathered from all sections of the state in a harmony meeting named their state ticket last night. The conference did not conclude until one o'clock this morning. The interest centered on the gubernatorial ballots. Milwaukee solidly voted for F. E. McGovern. At the conclusion of the second ballot Hal Martin of Edgerton made a desperate attempt in a speech to save the McGovern candidacy. The final vote gave William H. Hatton, 211; F. E. McGovern, 78. It was apparent from the start that the conference wanted some third man. In a brief speech Hatton thanked the conference.

Lieutenant Gov. E. F. Dittmar was named by acclamation to motion of Senator Otto Bosshard of La Crosse. There was a sharp contest over the secretary of state position. It resulted in the naming of Merlin Hull of Black River Falls as the fourth ballot. John S. Donald sought the endorsement for a third term.

Senator Bosshard, on behalf of Green and Dane counties, named Sol Lewin of Madison for state treasurer. Alvin Peterson of Soldiers Grove was also named and on the third ballot by a majority vote Peterson was chosen. Only two or three votes were cast for State Treasurer Henry Johnson, the present incumbent.

Walter G. Owen was named for attorney general by acclamation. The convention adjourned at one o'clock this morning.

No Mention of Fairbanks.
Endorsement of Charles Evans Hughes as a candidate for president, because of his record as a progressive, but no mention of the vice presidential candidate for the national republican platform covered the national issues presented in the platform adopted by the progressive republicans in conference last night. A strong endorsement "without reservation" of the candidacy and career of Senator Robert M. La Follette closed the platform.

The progressive republicans of Wisconsin in conference assembled promise support to Charles Evans Hughes, republican candidate for president, declares the first platform plank. "We accord him our support because of his record of independence of the political machine and political bosses. His nomination signified the overthrow of the political machine and the old guard political bosses and is encouraging to true progressives. We believe him progressive and honest, level-headed and unselfish, a true American with whom patriotism is an ever present principle."

The platform reaffirms fidelity to progressive principles.
Reviews the complete record of progressive laws enacted in Wisconsin and the good these laws have accomplished.
Pledges a careful administration of the affairs of state so as to reduce the expense to the taxpayer without loss of good service or efficiency.
Points out that more than $1,000,000 is paid in taxes in Wisconsin this year, under the administration of Gov. Philip, as compared with previous administrations.

Declares that the charge of Gov. Philip to go that Wisconsin has high taxes were due to the progressive state government was "a gross misrepresentation."

Executive must sympathize with progressive laws. His appointment may effectively hamstring legislation without repealing it.

Declares that the state should pay one-half of the cost of state highway construction and condemn the present state administration for failure to levy enough to meet the similar amounts of the localities.
Favors legislation that will reduce the cost of marketing farm products.
Recommends that the state furnish aid to the families of the members of the Wisconsin national guard.

We endorse the political career of Robert M. La Follette without reservation, declares the last plank. "We commend his achievements in behalf of humanity as without parallel in his time. We pledge him our support for re-election and assure him of our increasing confidence in his integrity of purpose and wise statesmanship."

By congressional districts the following men were chosen as members of a state central committee:

- First—W. S. Goodland, Racine.
- Second—C. D. Rosa, Beloit.
- Third—Martin Gose and William Labell, Clyman.
- Fourth—Emory Odell, Monroe; R. I. Fugdale, Platteville.
- Fifth—W. C. Lehr, Louis Foss, Milwaukee.
- Sixth—W. D. Corrigan and George Morten, Milwaukee.
- Seventh—M. F. White, Winneconne; C. G. Goshorn, Fond du Lac.
- Eighth—James Thompson, La Crosse; Oscar Shoengarth, Neillsville.
- Ninth—George Deicht, Marathon; George Burnham, Waupaca.
- Tenth—R. C. Walter, Appleton; W. A. Wescott, Florence.
- Eleventh—Thomas Nimhoff, Monroe county; J. P. Jensen, Trempealeau.
- Twelfth—T. M. Thomas, Rusk; D. L. Dobie, Superior.

Now in Starting.
The convention was slow in getting down to business. Latecomers of trains in bringing the delegates and the necessity of holding congressional district conferences, for the selection of members to serve on the important committees consumed much time and finally resulted in an adjournment until 7:15 o'clock before the matter of platforms and harmony nominations was reached. Following the address of Temporary Chairman A. S. Skog born of Ashland the conference elected the following permanent officers:

- Permanent chairman—W. S. Goodland, Racine.
- Permanent secretary—G. E. Morten, Milwaukee.
- Sergeant-at-arms—E. F. Warner, Madison.

On motion of Lieutenant Gov. E. F. Dittmar of Baraboo the chair appointed the following men who will solicit funds for the carrying on of the campaign for the progressive republicans: Emil Steiger, Oshkosh; Theodore M. Thomas, Ladysmith; John C. Kleczka, Milwaukee; Senator George B. Skog born, River Falls; and J. E. McConnell, La Crosse.

M. Perry, Oshkosh; Merila Hull, Black River Falls; George White, side, Portage; H. H. Culbertson, Medina; W. L. Houser, Mondovi; and Charles P. Morris, Bayfield.
Rules—Judge W. D. Appew, Waukegan; J. E. Williams, Randolph; J. W. Pryor, Iowa county; Lester C. Marston, Milwaukee; S. J. McMahon, Milwaukee; Philip Lehner, Princeton; J. H. McConnell, La Crosse; E. N. Deming, Wood county; J. T. Raintime, Florence county; C. A. Ingram, Durand; T. M. Thomas, Rusk.
Credentials—Hal Martin, Edgerton; A. H. Hartwig, Watertown; S. A. Schindler, New Glarus; C. J. Steffens, Milwaukee; H. T. Zillmer, Milwaukee; W. T. Sommerfeld, Oakfield; R. W. Monk, Neillsville; M. R. Stanley, Shawano.

Back From Indiana To Go With Co. L.

FRANK KERZMAN.

Among the members of Company L, W. N. G. of Beloit, who were summoned to return to Beloit when the call for the state militia was received, was Frank Kerzman, son of Mrs. G. L. Kerzman, who is 21 years of age, was employed at Marion, Ind., where he had gone three months ago. He has since returned to Wisconsin, arriving in Janesville on Tuesday evening, and reporting to Captain Huck at Beloit early Wednesday. He left with his company for Camp Douglas, the military training ground for the Wisconsin guardsmen, on Thursday morning.

LOCAL "Y" OFFICER MAY ATTEND CAMP

State "Y." Secretary Sends Out Letter Asking For Men to Help at "Y." Camp at Camp Douglas.

With the mobilization of the troops in the different state camps, there comes a good chance for the Young Men's Christian association of the country to do some good work among the men. The Wisconsin branch of the association is already planning to do work at Camp Douglas. A camp "Y." will be organized and workers from all parts of the state will spend part of their time in charge of the camp. C. R. Bearmore, secretary of the local Young Men's Christian Association, received the following letter from F. E. Anderson, state secretary:

Dear Mr. Bearmore: With the calling of the militia regiments of our state to camp at Camp Douglas, comes an opportunity for the associations to do definite work while the men are in camp. Yesterday, I saw the Adjutant general and the Quartermaster general and both expressed themselves favorably to our going into the camp. I am doing all I can to secure equipment.

I hope it will be possible for you and some of your associates to give some time at the camp. I believe this is a real opportunity for the Wisconsin associations to show our interest in the men in a practical way. Kindly let me know how much time you and your associates will be able to give at Camp Douglas. Of course, we do not know the length of the encampment but we must as soon as possible get into camp with our equipment and with a strong supervision.

Hoping to hear from you promptly and also hoping you may be able to promise liberal help. I am, yours sincerely, F. E. Anderson, State Secretary.

In an interview this morning with Secretary Bearmore stated that he expected to attend camp for a few days and possibly other members of the local association will attend. A call was also sent from the State Secretary's office for a large canvass tent forty by fifty feet and two small ones, thirty by forty feet. If any person has such a tent and is willing to loan it, he should notify Secretary Bearmore at once.

Good to Remember.

Every young man should remember that if his income is just a little above expenses every day, he will eventually become well off. If his receipts daily lack a little of meeting his expenditures, he will in time become a candidate for public favors at the poorhouse. Honest work at any calling and such economy as the case requires is honorable; while idleness and spendthrift habits are a disgrace to anyone, young or old.—New Canaan, (Conn.) Advertiser.

SHORE LEAVE.

By ELLIS WAKEMAN.

When the Reliance dropped anchor off Block Island during the maneuvers around Newport and Point Judith, Tinkham appeared to have a settled melancholy descend on him.

Deborah. That was her name. Funny, sweet, little old-fashioned name, he thought, Deborah Allan. She had been born right there on the island, 15 miles out from the mainland, and to Tinkham she seemed as sweet and rare as one of her own island pond lilies the barefooted boys brought around the hotels and docks.

All he had done that first day was to look at her and say, "Hello, sweetheart!"

And she had cuffed him soundly, her big, dark eyes ablaze with swift anger, her little hand stinging in its rebuke.

"You boys from the ships think you own the island the minute you land here," she had told him. "And we're not that sort."

She wasn't "that sort," either. A bit of "Mandalay" had always made him think of her in the long cruises later on. "I've a neater, sweeter maiden in a cleaner, greener land."

She had boxed his ears, but she had also all unwittingly given him a new ideal of girlhood, and in his own way he had tried to fit his standards of life to the new picture.

Somewhere he had learned that she played the organ up at little St. Ann's-by-the-Sea, and he had slipped into one of the back pews to listen to her just for one Sunday, his "neater, sweeter maiden." Also, before the ships had slipped away toward Newport, he had found a chance of meeting her father. The old man had been busy talking the seams in his sailing boat and Tinkham had spent all his morning one day helping him and telling him stories of navy life. His reward had come when Deborah came down to call her father to dinner, and they had met properly and rightly, and he had held her hand in greeting.

His time was up in September. If he could only be sure she was still there in the little white house on the shore road. He stayed on board and hugged his memory of her, afraid to risk the truth. Then Grimman came back and told him, big Grimman of the gunners' mess.

"She's still here, Tink," excitedly. "Seen her today myself. She's all alone up there. Lost her father in the March blows."

"Dead?" asked Tinkham.

"Sure. She's all alone. I'm telling you. Thought you'd like to know."

"Thanks," answered Tinkham, and the next day he got shore leave. As he turned up the beaten track to the cottage, he lifted his cap and tucked it under his arm for all the world the way he had the day he went to hear her play in church. Then, finally, he stood at the green screen side door, tapping, he, Tinkham of the navy, with a year between him and a girl who had boxed his ears.

But he had full revenge. She came quickly from the inner room and saw him, and the color rose to her face as she gave a quick indrawn little gasp and laughed to cover it.

Tinkham had rehearsed all sorts of proper speeches all the way along the road, and now he stood silent, adoring her, and all he could think to say was: "My time's up in September. I'm on shore leave today."

She gave him a chair on the little porch looking seaward, and they sat down.

"Did you think I'd come?" he asked. "Didn't you even remember me?"

She glanced from him to the boat lying keel up down on the sands.

"Yes, I remembered. Dad liked to talk to you best of the boys that came up here from the ships."

"You'll never like me, 'cause I spoke to you that day, will you?" he asked hungrily. "I didn't say anything only—"

"I remember what you said." She smiled at him from under her long lashes. "It's just what all of them say to any girl."

"If I said it today it wouldn't be the same," said Tinkham doggedly. "I'd mean it. That's what I came ashore for. I guess I've thought about you every day for a year, and when I heard about your trouble I had to come. I've only got one more month to serve then I'm going out home to see my mother and sisters. But I'm coming back. I can't get away from the sea. I like it right here. Maybe it's you that makes the island seem wonderful. I don't know, but I feel it right here."

Tinkham stopped and waited. He was not given to eloquence. Love seemed to leave him wordless and smitten with its glory. Deborah was looking past him out to sea, where the warships lay, gun metal gray in the morning light on the sapphire water. "I'm coming back in September. If there isn't anybody else—" She shook her head quickly, and Tinkham's blue eyes sparkled. He leaned toward her eagerly, throwing his challenge to fate.

"Hello, sweetheart!" he whispered, not as he had said it that first day, but with all his heart's longing in his voice, all his life's hope in the call. Hello, sweetheart!

And Deborah, blushing softly, stretched out her hand to him. "Hello, boy!" she answered. "I kind of thought you'd come ashore." (Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Parkwood Addition

Located on Milwaukee Ave. just east of Garfield

Do you know that right here in Janesville you have one of the very finest subdivisions in the United States. There is nothing in the whole state of Wisconsin that even approaches it in quality. It should and will be the pride of the City of Janesville.

The addition is not large only sixty lots, but every lot is a gem---a gem in a beautiful setting.

This beautiful addition represents years of thought and work and study, by Mr. Palmer and Mr. Parker of the Parker Pen Company. The brains that built that great business have given the city of Janesville a residence place that is really a park--and a wonderfully fine park at that. No expense has been too great, time was not considered, they just planned for beauty--and got it.

Large lots facing curving drives--fine trees in good growth--rare foreign and domestic shrubs and plants--parks and flower beds, tennis courts and play grounds, and all these things cared for by a perpetual trust fund--Parkwood will always be beautiful.

If you have any interest in Janesville if the fine things of life make any appeal to you or if your children may sometime want a home when beauty counts--then you must come out to Parkwood.

FOOD REGULATION DECLARED UNFAIR BY GERMAN POOR

Middle and Lower Classes Unable to Get Their Share of Meat, Reports Correspondent.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
By William G. Shepherd.
Janesville, May 23.—The German government is regulating the food supply for the poor but so far it has not been in hand the control of food for the rich.

The many travelers from Germany who have their ideas of the German food regulation to mind here all complained that the wonderful scientific food conservation scheme of the Germans broke down when it came to dealing with the food of the rich.

There is no food riots in Germany, because the rich and the poor people realize it.
Poor people must stand in line for meat before a meat shop, providing they have five or six marks for a portion of meat said one German I met in Rotterdam.

Maybe the meat supply in the shop will hold out until their turn comes in the line and maybe it won't.
But the people can hire a servant and have the duty of it to stand in the line every day, from 1 o'clock in the morning until the day's supply of meat for the rich man's household is secured.

And even if the rich man's servant
does not buy meat, he and his family always go to a hotel or restaurant and get meat on every day in the week except Tuesday and Friday.

The authorities may frown on a household going to a restaurant every day, but there is no law against it and if the householder doesn't want to be criticized for doing this he has only to go to a different restaurant
every day and his unpatriotic practice will not be noticed.

The idea seems to be growing among the middle and lower classes in Germany that the only fair way to deal with the food conservation plan is to put all civilians on a ration basis, each person being granted a certain quantity of food every day and each individual being sure of receiving its full quantity.

In a war like ours," said this German, who had socialistic leanings,
there ought to be no rich or poor.
Everybody ought to be on the same basis and many Germans think it monstrous that the poor should suffer more than the rich.

We all feel that if the war goes on every person, rich and poor, ought to be supplied with a daily ration ticket. With this ticket a poor man will be certain of receiving all the food he needs for his family and the rich man will not be able to secure any more than the poor whether he eats at a hotel or at home.

It is to placate the poor and the middle classes of Germany and that the government soup wagons pass through the streets.

The restaurants and rich hotels of Germany where a man with money enough to go in and out with express his desires in order to have them fulfilled, became sources of irritation to German civilians.

The government therefore tried to bring restaurant conditions to the people by establishing the food wagons.

In many households cooking is almost a thing of the past. Housekeepers wait for the passing of the food wagon and run out with receptacles to purchase the current meal, which usually consists of war bread and a vegetable soup.

The food wagons, however, while they may satisfy the hunger of the poor, do not, I gathered in Rotterdam, satisfy the popular demand for more justice in the distribution of food.

"But the whole country on rations"
is the solution Mr. Average Citizen in Germany offers the government.

"The rations have been having and not so much for food as for and fair play in the distribution of food," exclaimed a German from Berlin.

They led the doctor to the stricken man. He was sitting bolt up right in bed.
"Dear I am paralyzed, doctor," said the man. "Where is my foot voice, I feel in fine health when I woke up, but after I had sat up in bed and smoked a cigarette, I found to my surprise, distress, investigation, terror, alarm and fear that I could not move my head or neck."

"Can you put out your tongue?" asked the doctor.
The stricken man could, and did, and the doctor examined it with his tongue.

"Mind," he remarked thoughtfully,
"here, hum." Then, after carefully examining the patient's heart, lungs, ep-stomach, knee cap and pocket book, he turned to Mrs. Wheat.

"Madam," he said angrily, "you are the cause of this!"
The stricken man, Mrs. Wheat, "I should say."

"Yes, I should say, you! You chuck your chewing gum over your husband's head instead of over your own before you went to sleep, and the result is, back of his head stuck to the bed."

They investigated and found the doc-sense of humor that let his wife off with a shrug downstairs instead of a worse beating.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—There Seems to Be Some Mystery Before.

Why "Anuric" is an INSURANCE Against Sudden Death.

Before an Insurance Company will take a risk on your life the examining physician will test the urine and report whether you are a good risk. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizziness, rheumatism and pains of the joints, the muscles and gout. The urine is often cloudy, full of sediment; channels often get sore and sleep is disturbed two or three times a night. This is the time you should consult some physician of wide experience—such as Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Send him 10 cents for a sample package of his new discovery, "Anuric." Write him your symptoms and send a sample of urine for test. Experience has taught Dr. Pierce that "Anuric" is the most powerful agent in dissolving uric acid, as hot water melts sugar; besides being absolutely harmless for it preserves the kidneys in a healthy condition by thoroughly cleansing them. Being so many times more active than lithia, it clears the heart valves of any sandy substances which may clog them and checks the degeneration of the blood-vessels, as well as regulating blood pressure. "Anuric" is a regular insurance and life-saver for all big men and those who deposit lime in their joints. Ask the druggist for "Anuric" put up by Dr. Pierce, in 50-cent packages.

STRENGTH AND BEAUTY

Come with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This is a blood cleanser and a restorative that starts the liver and stomach into vigorous action. It thus assists the body to manufacture rich red blood which feeds the heart, nerves, brain and organs of the body. The organs work smoothly like machinery running in oil. You feel clean, strong and vigorous instead of tired, weak and faint.

Indoor Life Makes Fat

TRY OIL OF KOREIN TO KEEP WEIGHT DOWN, OR TO REDUCE SUPERFLUOUS FATS.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh, invigorating air and exercise must take precaution to guard against overweight, as fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality and the formation of unsightly and unhealthy fat is the result.

If you are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight you are daily drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any persons who are satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout are advised to go to Smith Drug Co., or any good druggist and get a box of oil of korein capsules, and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night.

Even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, improved digestion and a return of the old energy; foot-steps become lighter and the skin less flabby in appearance as superfluous fat disappears.

Oil of korein is inexpensive, cannot injure and helps the digestion. Any person who wants to reduce 15 or 20 pounds is advised to give this treatment a trial.

NOW FEELS FIT ALL THE TIME

W. H. Bown Has Remarkable Experience With New Medicine, Tanlac.

W. H. Bown, of 406 Center avenue, Fond Du Lac, has recently used Tanlac, the premier preparation, and has found it good. Mr. Bown is a wagon maker and is located at 29 Third street, where he will be glad to tell all about his experience with the new medicine. He made this statement a short while ago:

"I had indigestion very badly and was unable to eat without being distressed afterwards. I felt all run down and tired and found it hard to do my work properly. I had no energy or ambition and had lost much of my strength. I never felt quite fit. I was troubled with sour stomach, a great deal. My appetite was very poor.

"I have used all kinds of different medicines but never have I seen anything that could compare with Tanlac. It braced me up in very short time and soon put me back on my feet. I am now able to eat what I want knowing that I won't feel distressed afterwards. My appetite is good. I sleep well and always feel fine. I find my work easy for me. I have lost that tired worn out feeling. I can recommend Tanlac to all."

Tanlac may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store, 14 W. Milwaukee st.

THE NEW CLARION

By... WILL N. HARBEN

Copyright, 1914, by Harper & Brothers

"We've got his measure," Abner laughed. "If he beats us he will be welcome to all he makes. What do you think the scamp offered us for a full page display ad. in our main issue?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, being as he knows you are green—I mean a fresh hand—at the business," Hillhouse said, with no little pride. "He naturally would be on the lookout for a pick-up."

"He offered $25," Abner said, with contempt. "But I told him to look at the mess in our eyes."

Hillhouse was about to speak when Tarp clattered back up the stairs. Pausing in the doorway he said: "Well, fellows, it is pretty tough on me to have to double my price on that ad., but I'll take your offer. I'll send the copy down at once."

When he had gone Hillhouse stood crying Abner. "So you made him an offer, I see."

"Yes, a sort of one," Abner glanced at Howard and back at Hillhouse. "I told 'im he'd have to double the offer he made. He just said twenty-five. He now pays fifty—some little difference, eh?"

"Fifty?" Hillhouse glanced at Abner sympathetically. "He's already done you, Ab. If you figure it up you can't make a profit on less than seventy-five."

"You don't say?" Abner's countenance fell. There was a touch of red in his cheeks, a flare of indignation in his eyes. "Well, he kin crow this time, but a burnt child is afraid of the fire, and I'll watch that skunk close from now on. I'll git it back, too; you see if I don't."

"If you do it will be after he's dead," Hillhouse smiled. "He's the sharpest trader I ever met."

CHAPTER VIII. Howard's Temptation.

THE dinner to be given to the country contributors—the "Dot-terers," as they had playfully called themselves—was, according to the New Clarion's announcement, to be unsurpassed in sumptuous splendor. It was got up to bring writers of congenial tastes into agreeable personal intercourse for the first time in the history of local journalism. The obliging and far famed boudoir of the Johnston House, its efficient clerk and corps of accommodating waiters and porters were to throw open their doors to the brilliant representatives of the New Clarion under auspices never before equaled.

For the first time these contributors, many of whom had friendly rifts in the public arena of wit and repartee, were going to meet face to face and clasp hands in good fellowship and the resolve to promote the interests of the weekly in north Georgia. The massive introductory number of the new series had fairly astounded the public.

The day arrived. The weather was crisp and cool enough to be agreeable. Every invited correspondent had accepted. Early in the afternoon they began to arrive, in buggies, on horseback and by train. They were noticeable on the streets from their spick and span appearance and their strolling about like tourists from spot to spot in groups or alone. Abner had supplied badges of blue silk, on which were printed in gold letters the words "The Dotterers' Dinner," and Frank Raymond, a friend of Howard, a member of the social set of the town who sometimes telegraphed important news to the city papers, had proffered his services and was distributing the badges and introducing the delegates one to another.

About 4 o'clock Abner went into the hotel, finding Tom Sugart behind the counter in the office.

"How goes it, Tom?" he asked affably. "Got all you kin do, I reckon."

"Full up," Sugart smiled.

"But say, Tom, you are goin' to have enough grub tonight, ain't you?" queried Abner.

"Leave that to me, Uncle Ab." Sugart rubbed his palms together as if quite elated. "You said you could stand a dollar a head, and we are spending all of it and some more. We want them writers to remember the Johnston House to the end of their days. A dinner like this has never been given in Darley."

"As I said," Abner returned, "there is only two items for the palate that I stick out for an' that is fried chicken an' ice cream—an', yes, good, strong coffee to top off on."

"Ice cream!" Sugart clapped his hands as he began rubbing them afresh. "You surely have heard of that famous Atlanta brand that has the run down to the Florida coast with all the big bugs that stop at the palace hotels? It ain't any of your boiled custard makeshift, but solid, thick cream from the cow, froze as hard as a snowball. We are looking for three freezers of it up on the 6-40. As for chicken, your friend Pole Baker hauled in a coop of the fattest that ever pecked and searched in a barnyard. He said he would let them go for your dinner, but wouldn't have sold them to anybody else."

About 7 o'clock that evening Abner brought Mary to town in his buggy. As they drove up the main street to the hotel they noticed that the long front veranda over the sidewalk was illuminated by many varicolored Japanese lanterns.

At the head of the stairs on the parlor floor they met Howard and Frank Raymond. They were both in evening dress. Frank had a great tray of damp buttonhole bouquets, which he was pinning on the lapels of the men's coats as they arrived. Abner submitted gracefully to his decoration, while Howard placed Mary to the ladies' dressing room. He was waiting for her in the corridor when she came out. "I have never seen you look so well," he declared, admiringly, as he looked at her simple white dress and flowers. "The drive has given you a splendid color."

Mary dropped her eyes. It was hard for her to conceal the pleasure his words gave her. She elected to change the subject.

"Up to 6 o'clock this afternoon," she said, "I was in hope that your mother and father would come, but they decided that they'd rather not sit up so late, and they heard that the hotel was crowded too much for them to get a room. Oh, Howard, I wish you knew how happy your mother is over your success and remaining here. She can't talk of anything else, and as for your father—"

"Oh, he will always be sour over it," Howard said quickly. "He is down on Uncle Ab and will denounce anything he touches. We simply can't listen to him, Mary. We've got to be our own judges and act accordingly."

"But he has changed him," Mary declared. "He is not the same—not so vindictive. He made a little talk at Sunday school last Sunday, and I felt rather sorry for him. It looked as if he were trying to be more liberal. There has been so much said over the New Clarion and its chances under your care that he simply had to lay aside open opposition."

"I have heard a great many compliments from the delegates I have met today about your letters to the paper," Howard said. "They all like them. I have just set up your last and corrected the proofs. Has Uncle Ab mentioned it to you yet? He says that a little later you simply must be our society editor."

As they were going toward the door of the parlor, whence came the music of some one playing on the piano, they saw Cora Langham, beautifully attired in a stylish gown, come down the stairs and join Frank Raymond at the table holding the flower tray.

"I did not know that she was to be present," Mary said coldly. "I thought the entertainment was confined to—"

"She will not be at the dinner," Howard explained, a little awkwardly. "But as a guest of the hotel. In fact, all the guests have been invited to look on and join in the dance afterward, if they wish. You see, there is no other way. It wouldn't do, you know, to deprive traveling men and summer boarders of the use of the veranda and parlor in such warm weather."

"I think if I had been in her place, though," Mary said, "I would not have put on quite such an elaborate dress, and surely she might have amused herself in her room for one evening."

"But, you see, she and her mother come away from the city to pass the time pleasantly, and an affair like this is, after all, a sort of diversion."

"It will be to her," Mary replied. "She will snuff and sneer at everybody and everything."

The conversation was ended by Abner, who came for Mary with the intention of introducing her to the "Dotterers," who now filled the big parlor. "They all want to meet you," he said, "especially the men."

At this moment Miss Langham left Raymond pinning a boutonniere on a man's coat and came toward Howard with a seductive smile on her lips.

"I am awfully proud of you this evening," she said, her wonderful eyes kindling as they met his. "This is a triumph for you in particular. You are the center of it all. But for your brains and energy all this would not be taking place. Mr. Daniel told me yesterday that the paper was doing wonderfully well. I saw you talking to Mary Trumbley just now. Mr. Daniel says she writes too. She looks like a smart girl. She has a rather pretty face, I'm sure you like her."

"Yes, very, very much," Howard answered sincerely. "She is the best and truest friend I have."

Miss Langham winced slightly and gave him a reproachful glance from her shadowy eyes. "You say that to me," she said, "after all I have said to you?"

"You have said a good many things," Howard laughed softly and significantly. "But Mary has done so many that I can't count them. But there is no use in our talking about her. You'd have to know her as well as I do to understand."

"Howard," she said, with a little sigh, "you make me very angry at times. Do you know, you are the only man that has ever dared to speak to me as you do?"

He looked down into the beautiful eyes, which were so full of reproach. The returned gaze seemed as pure and guileless as that of a child. Once again he felt her influence on him. He wanted to clasp her in his arms. He wanted to kiss her. He might have declared his love, or what he blindly fancied was love. She read the passionate dare in his eyes, pressed his arm again, looked down and sighed anew. As he had made no response she said softly, "Do you really think you are treating me fairly?"

"Yes, or I would act otherwise," he said frankly. "Then, as he smiled he felt himself somewhat immune from the impulse which had just possessed him. "Cora, we might as well understand each other. You are a flirt, and I do not approve of it. You are a flirt and you know it."

"I am not," she said, not wholly displeased. "There is a difference between the girl who likes to be admired because she is rather pretty and attractive—between the one who loves to be liked by others and the girl who is incapable of genuine affection."

"What is the good of my criticizing you, even to gain a point in an argument? I know that you are playing a great game," he returned, with a gentle smile. "And it has become second nature to you. Men are captives to you. The bigger the bunch the more fun you have knocking them down. I've heard men say that they would not marry a girl who was not desired by many others; but I am not like that for certain well grounded reasons."

"What are they, you stupid boy?" She took his arm again, and they strolled out on the veranda and to the far end, where they were quite alone.

"To be frank and you make me

"Why is it," we asked the great detective, "that no matter how intelligent a criminal may be, he invariably leaves some clue for the police to work on?"

"That used to puzzle me, too," said the detective. "But I finally dotted it out this way. There ain't no money in crime, and them that goes in for it does it just for the excitement. Now, it stands to reason that if they want running no risks, there wouldn't be no excitement. So they just leaves a clue or two around to put on the track and then they gets fun out of dodging us."

nevertheless. Nature has blessed you with beauty and power, but you are misusing them. You have acquired a habit that is as abnormal as the use of morphine, but you don't realize it. You are feverish and excited over your game of winning hearts and crushing them. Even if you possessed the love of the truest, noblest man in the world it would not satisfy you. After marriage, perhaps even after being a mother, you'd still want the attention of men. Your husband would have no actual home life, your children would have no proper example and would grow up to the same sort of false life that you were in.

Cora stood still and silent for a moment, her eyes on the musicians, who were leaving the veranda.

"I know what you think of me, anyway," she faltered, her lips quivering visibly in the light of the Japanese lanterns against the brick wall, "but even you can't understand a woman. So a girl is to blame for having many admirers, is she? That is a new idea. Howard, I presume you think Mary Trumbley would not love them even if she could."

"She happens to be the sort of girl who really wouldn't care for them," he answered.

"Indeed! Has she been tried?" Cora demanded sarcastically. "How do you know? How does she know?"

"That is hard to answer," Howard replied.

Dreaded An Operation More Than Anything

Tried Fruitola and Traxo and Has Never Since Been Troubled With Gall-stones.

Mrs. Mary E. Franse, whose address is West Point, Neb., Box 411, has written to the Pinus laboratories a very strong endorsement of Fruitola and Traxo. In her letter, Mrs. Franse says: "About ten years ago I was about to undergo an operation for gall-stones when I heard of your medicine. Dreading an operation above everything I determined to try Fruitola and Traxo and have never been sorry I did so, as I have never been troubled with gall-stones since."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, and one dose is usually sufficient to give ample evidence of its efficacy. It softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that occasion so much suffering, and expels the accumulated waste to the great relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day in order to rebuild and restore the system that has been weakened and run down by constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 322 W. Milwaukee st.

A Model Seeker and a Model Christian

By REV. R. M. RUSSELL, D. D.
Instructor in Doctrine, Moody Bible
Institute of Chicago

TEXT—He went on his way rejoicing.—
ACTS 13:49.

The story of Philip and the Ethiopian eunuch presents at once an illustration of effective personal work in soul winning, and the portrait of a model seeker and a model Christian. It is safe to draw lessons from such an incident since it is so near to the fountain head of Christian history and so manifestly controlled by the spirit of God. The eunuch stands forth as a model of excellence both as a seeker and a Christian.

1.—As a model seeker the eunuch presents four points of excellence: 1. He was an earnest seeker. Knowing that Jerusalem was a place of special divine manifestation he made the long journey from northern Africa, not by the comfortable method of modern travel, but by the slow process of chariot driving. Neither distance nor desert sand hindered his journey.

What a contrast here with many unsaved men who will not make any effort to come in contact with truth, even by as much as walking around a corner to some place of worship where the word of God would be explained.

2. He was a persistent seeker. Failing to find the truth for which he sought, either in the splendor of the temple worship, or by association with other worshippers, he left Jerusalem for his home still seeking, and was giving himself to a diligent reading of the prophecy of Isaiah.

Here again he stands out in marked contrast with many of the unsaved who utterly neglect the Word of God and who do not open the Bible from one month to another even though they admit it is the good news of salvation, the time table of God's road of eternal life, and the description of a heavenly inheritance with the conditions of possession.

3. He was a teachable seeker. The eunuch was puzzled by the writing of the prophet. Confronted by one who seemed to claim knowledge, he at once invited the stranger to share his chariot and asked him to explain the prophet's message.

In this regard he is a model for every inquirer. It is no confession of mental weakness to seek the help of another in things spiritual. It is simply the recognition that another has preceded us in the search for truth. Many people struggle for years with doubts and fears that might be removed in a single hour of conference with pastor or spiritual friend.

4. He was an obedient seeker. Hearing Philip's explanation of the gospel he at once expressed his faith in Christ and claimed the first opportunity for confession through baptism. A readiness to accept Christ on his own terms is the true test of a seeker's honesty and earnestness. The ordinances of the gospel are both simple and significant. Their observance permits the believer to express his faith toward God and to take the attitude of open testimony as a witness for Christ.

1.—As a model Christian the eunuch "went on his way rejoicing." 1. He rejoiced over new-found truth. All truth is interesting. Men with eager joy push their investigations along lines of natural science, but the largest truth is God in Christ.

Pleasant Fields of Holy Writ

Motto for this week: The pure and noble, the graceful and dignified simplicity of language is nowhere in such perfection as in the scriptures. Alexander Pope, 1688-1744.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.
Second Quarter. June 25, 1916.
THE REVIEW.

In the conversion of St. Paul the Christian church not only acquired a champion of great ability and ardent zeal, but that event also marked an epoch of first importance in its evolution. Missions and emancipation from ceremonial law were the two principles for which St. Paul stood pre-eminently. He incarnated them. Without them, humbly speaking Christianity would have reverted into a mere ethnic religion. With them it appealed successfully to all men. It became in fact all-men's religion. To this end he was Heaven's chosen vessel. He averted the disaster of racial narrowness. He expanded the vision of the church to the horizon of the world and spurred its effort to the ends of the earth.

Christianity following the example and precept of its Founder from its very inception undertook to make men more comfortable in their bodies, to alleviate pain and to provide for the destitute. Incidentally the furnished new evidence of the Divinity of the new faith. St. Peter pre-eminently stood for this principle in the evolution of the church. The incidents of Aeneas and Dorcas are typical. In the one it was as if all the lingering, deep-seated disorders, both mental and physical were represented. In the other St. Peter sets the apostolic seal on "good works and almsdeeds."

If all the world had been searched for a Gentile convert in all respects worthy of immediate reception into the Christian church a better candidate than Cornelius could not have been found. On the other hand no apostle could have done so with less offense to the prejudices of Jewish-Christian members. Cornelius was already held in high repute among the Jews, considered almost though not quite a proselyte. St. Peter, on his part, was so thoroughly wedded to Judaism that it took a heavenly vision to break the spell.

The imprisonment and impending martyrdom of St. Peter served to acquaint the church with one unsuspected but efficient weapon for its protection in every emergency. A greater disaster could not be imagined than the loss of the apostle. What could be done? "Circulate a petition for his release?" "Storm the Castle Antonia for his rescue?" Something equally absurd in current opinion was done. A prayer meeting was held, a men's convective. And while they were still on their knees, Peter himself stood knocking at the door! To the end of time prayer will continue the mightiest weapon of the church for offense or defense.

Hitherto the diffusion of the gospel beyond Palestine had been accident of persecution, but at Antioch of set purpose, in answer to prayer, and under direction of the Holy Ghost, the publication of the glad tidings in foreign parts was deliberately undertaken. The event is exemplary as well as epochal. After this manner the church is still to seek the tokens of Providence. Missionaries are still to be set apart with prayer and considered as "sent forth by the Holy Ghost."

In Antioch of Pisidia, that far-away place, Judaism was having a "second probation." The gospel came there de novo. Far from the scenes of its original rejection it was quite possible for these provincial Jews to accept a Messiah that had been rejected at Jerusalem. Alas! racial prejudices prevailed. Seeing their synagogue profaned by uncircumcised heathen they were filled with blind rage. Then and there Judaism was lost in its second probation.

Acts of the Apostles is an anatomy of the universal human heart. At Lystra Luke's scalpel uncovers a wild fanaticism and rustic credulity which, one moment takes St. Paul as a god to be sacrificed to, and at another an impostor to be put to death. Snares are substituted for rocks. Yet this sudden revulsion of popular feeling is a thoroughly human characteristic, not of rustics merely, but of metropolitans. Jerusalem turned its "hosannah" into "crucify" in a day.

Jerusalem was the scene of the first great council of the Christian church. No succeeding one ever dealt with so important a subject. It was there decided whether Christianity should be a mere racial or a world-wide religion; for Christianity, handicapped by Moslem ritual, could never hope to make much progress outside of Jewry. The happy conclusion was not just the result of the deliberations of the brief session of that governing body. In the twenty years since Pentecost, a chain of glorious facts had been forging under the hammer of Providence. Some of the links were: selection of Hellenists as deacons; revival in Samaria; founding of the church in Antioch; conversion of the Ethiopian, of Cornelius and of Saul; mission to Asia Minor. Such a chain would bind any unprejudiced mind to the very conclusion that the Council reached.

The religious destiny of Europe and the then-undiscovered America quivered in the balance when St. Paul had his vision at Troas. If he had been disobedient to that vision history of the world would have had to be rewritten from that date. The rest of the Acts of the Apostles and most of the epistles would have to be stricken from the New Testament. But he did not hesitate. It is said that as Europe once sent a conqueror to Asia in Alexander, so Asia now sent a conqueror to Europe in St. Paul. Of Alexander's conquest nothing remains. Of St. Paul's everything! St. Paul grappled with a form of spiritualism as soon as he set foot in Europe. By the cure of a deranged girl he spoiled the gilt-edged monopoly of her owners and landed himself in jail. Tempter must have whispered "Fine opening this! Vision at Troas must have been an illusion!" The answer was a prayer and a song. And all "turned on for the furtherance of the gospel," miraculous deliverance, conversion of jailor, visit of the praetors. Joy was the natural characteristic of a church founded under such circumstances. To this church St. Paul wrote the most joyous of all his epistles.

June 25, 1916. Ephesians 11: 1-10. WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF OUR LIFE ON EARTH.

A dissolving picture! A man with a dead moral nature, responding only to the spirit that worketh among the disobedient, with that kind of a manner of life, seeking to fulfill the evil desires of the mind, a child of wrath! Suddenly the dead moral nature is quickened and raised to life. It is brought from the morgue of moral death, lifted from the dunghill of moral rottenness to a position that is fairly heavenly. This is the grace and workmanship of God, not of man. In the place of trespass and sin, lusts and death, now appears a quickened moral life, and all the good deeds that are incident to it. In proportion as such moral miracles increase will the millennium be brought forward in the world's calendar. Those thousand perfect years are in reality an indefinitely long period in which there is substantially that universal righteousness, which is consequent upon the moral resurrection of the individual. Such a condition is by its very nature one of universal peace and joy.

TOBACCO TRANSPLANTING IS GROWERS' PROGRAM

The transplanting of the 1916 tobacco crop has been occupying the time of the tobacco growers this week. By working long hours while the sun was shining the time lost by the excess of rains has nearly been made up. The cool weather, too, has helped preventing the young plants from wilting, and giving them an early rooting. When the setting was begun, the plants were strong and healthy, and so far the complaints from cut worm ravages have been few. If the growers are favored by any kind of weather at all, it is estimated that over half of the intended crop will be in the fields by the close of the week, and that the entire acreage will be set before June closes. The outlook for a big crop is as promising as the growers of the state seldom see.

Meanwhile, the demand for old leaf continues. The factories report large sales on 14 and 13 cases and the storage shipments of the Edgerton warehouses total about 400 cases by last reports.

EXPRESS APPROVAL WITH APPOINTMENT OF GEN. RICHARDSON

Selection of Janesville Man as Head of Wisconsin Guard Gratifies Military Men.

The naming of Capt. Lorraine T. Richardson of Janesville by Gov. Philipp as Wisconsin brigadier general met with general approval of men high in Milwaukee military circles Thursday afternoon. Gen. Charles King, U. S. A., retired, paid a compliment both to Captain Richardson and the Wisconsin brigade in commenting on the appointment.

"I know Capt. Richardson well," he said, "and esteem him highly. I have come to regard him as one of the most thorough students of military art we have with us on duty in the state, and a man of high character."

Lorraine T. Richardson.

The appointment is a splendid one and there is hardly a vestige of a doubt that it will be readily confirmed by the war department at Washington.

Sees New Iron Brigade. Development of a second Wisconsin Iron Brigade under the new commander was predicted by Lieut. Col. J. A. Watrous, U. S. W. V. As a captain on duty with the Wisconsin National guard much of the time during the last year, Gen. Richardson had an opportunity to acquaint himself with the value of the material which makes up his first brigade and the officers and men of the brigade had a good chance to learn the character of the man and general who is to command them, said Col. Watrous. "They are advantages which will be of use to both."

Gen. Richardson is a thoroughly equipped soldier, a West Pointer, a distinguished graduate of the army school of the line and a graduate of the army staff college. Our Wisconsin brigade has fallen into good hands, said Col. Watrous. "They are advantages which will be of use to both."

Gen. Richardson was born on May 20, 1871, hence was 45 last month. He is a year older than Gen. U. S. Grant was at the end of the civil war. His pay as a brigadier general with service of more than twenty years will be $6,000 a year, $500 a month, or $18.88 per day.

The release of the new commander will be asked from his place in the United States army so that he can take immediate charge of the troops now at Camp Douglas.

Graduate of West Point. Capt. Lorraine T. Richardson was a son of the late state Senator Hamilton Richardson of Janesville. He was appointed to West Point from Janesville in 1890, being graduated in 1895. He was promoted to a first lieutenant July 1, 1898, and was assigned to the Twentieth infantry Jan. 1, 1899, as promoted to captain and assigned to the Twenty-sixth infantry Feb. 2, 1901. He was transferred to the Twenty-second infantry Aug. 2, 1902. He has been unassigned for two years, during which time he has been on duty in connection with the national guard of Wisconsin.

Gen. Richardson has had two tours to the Philippines, in addition to having been on the Mexican border. He was among those who went to San Antonio five years ago when President Taft sent a force down to keep watch of the Mexicans.

SCHOLAR IS RECRUIT IN BELOIT COMPANY

Dr. Philip B. Whitehead of This City, Recently Awarded Fellowship at Yale, Enlists in State Guards.

Among the recruits with Company L, first regiment, Wisconsin National Guard, at Camp Douglas, is Dr. Philip B. Whitehead, son of former state Senator John M. Whitehead of this city. Dr. Whitehead enlisted at Beloit Wednesday night and departed with the company on Thursday morning.

Almost coincident with his determination to enlist in the guards came word from New Haven, Conn., that the Yale Corporation had voted Dr. Whitehead a fellowship in the department of classics at Yale University which he expects to take advantage of this fall provided the national guards are released in time from further service under the direction of the United States war department. "My son will fulfill his duty as member of the guards, of course, regardless of his former plans with regard to work at Yale University," declared Senator Whitehead this morning.

Dr. Whitehead was graduated from Beloit college with the class of 1906; later he took a four years' course at Yale university, receiving the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Excellence in scholarship at Yale secured him a two years' post graduate course at the American college at Rome, Italy where he made an extended study of architecture and archeology. He returned to his home in this city over a year ago.

Captain C. S. Buck of Company L and Dr. Whitehead were classmates at Beloit college.

Pretty Safe Bet. Little Willie, stretched flat on his stomach, was watching the bucket as it was lowered into an open well at the end of a long rope. Impressed by the great depth, he was finally able to contain himself no longer. "I'll bet that rope is more than half an inch long," he asserted with conviction.

Remove Temptation. Little Eugene, aged three years, who is just beginning to learn he should not eat cake before his meal, was seated at the evening meal when all of a sudden he saw a cake on the buffet and remarked, "Oh, my dosh, tuper up dat cake till I eat my tatotes."

PEARLS OF PRICE

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

"How much were they worth?" asked Hobart. Gertrude stood near the open fireplace. It was all so unbelievable and so rapid. There were only five in the case besides herself and Hobart—the Kincaids, whom they had known for years; Sewall Tate, Florida Tate, his sister, and Granger Fredericks, Hobart's best friend.

"About ten thousand, I think, Barty. Father never puts a price tag on anything, you know, but he bought them for mother at Venice when they were on their honeymoon. I wore them only Friday night and—and I think I put them in the little jewel drawer of my dressing table."

"Without a lock?"

"I've never locked up anything here. It can't be any guest, and I know it isn't the servants."

"Are you sure you lost them after you had taken them off—that they didn't slip off your neck somewhere?"

"But I only wore them that evening, dear, and we didn't go out of the house. If they had slipped off, we'd have found them somewhere. You don't think—"

His eyes met hers questioningly, "Sewall?"

"He's seemed kind of moody, don't you think so, Barty?"

Hobart shook his head, blowing out smoke from his mouth in rings.

"Not Sewall. He's a regular fellow, Trudie. I'd rather consider even Kincaid losing his head. He's been awfully hard hit the last month. Dropped fifty thousand in two days last week, I heard. That's why I asked them out here—to rest up and get his grip back."

The sound of a chair scraping back out in the sun parlor stopped him. Fredericks came in with his customary smile of splendid, genial good cheer and satisfaction with life.

"Barty," he said, happily, "I'm going to stay here longer than you've asked me to. You can't get rid of me yet awhile. It's the most perfect rest spot I've found since I left California. Kincaid says he's called back to town suddenly, but I'm going to plant my standards."

"Stay as long as you like, old man," answered Hobart heartily. "So Kincaid's going today? He hadn't told me. I'm mighty sorry."

Gertrude could not help looking at him meaningly. It seemed terrible even to suspect in their thoughts quiet Kincaid. Barty had left the room, and she caught Granger eying her with amusement.

"I've never seen you serious before," he said.

"Am I serious?" she laughed and sighed at the same time. "Oh, Granger, life's pretty much of a tangle after all, isn't it?"

It was a relief when the last had gone, excepting Fredericks. He sat out in the sun parlor nearly all day long, working on his new play. Hobart had finally settled in his own mind it must have been Kincaid. But Gertrude suspected young Sewall. And, finally, there came out to the beautiful shore-country home a detective.

Hobart was in town, and Gertrude dreaded handling the affair by herself, but she gave all information by degrees, and followed him around the house until they came on Granger in the sun parlor. She introduced the visitor hesitatingly. And Granger stared a minute, stretched out his hand and laughed heartily.

"God bless your heart, Gertrude, I didn't think you'd take it so seriously. Wait a minute, child." He dug into his inner coat pocket and drew out something wrapped in a pocket handkerchief. "There are your pearls all safe and sound. You see, Hobart didn't mention them, and neither did you, and I couldn't tell for the life of me what you meant to do about them, and I could not possibly finish that third act until you did do something definite."

"Third act?" repeated Gertrude. "Granger, what have you done?"

"Just experimented," he answered playfully. "I knew neither you nor Barty would mind a bit when you found me out. I've had the very deuce of a time working out my third act, you see, and I've got just this sort of a situation, only the girl steals a necklace of diamonds. But you, pearls served quite as well. But there are your pearls."

"Oh, Granger, Granger!" She leaned back against the glass door, holding the pearls and laughing.

The detective had stepped back into the library. Fredericks took his favorite seat at the round willow table, and waved his pencil at her happily.

"I'm sorry they weren't diamonds," he said. "It might have worked out better. Still, pearls have more character."

History of American Oranges.

The orange was originally introduced into Florida by the Spaniards, who imported a few sour oranges and gave some of the fruit to the Indians. The seeds of these fruit, being distributed from village to village and finding congenial soil and favorable climatic conditions in the hardwood forests and live oak groves where the tall native growth protected them from sun and radiation, grew up into seedling trees, and in due time formed wild groves of immense extent throughout the northern and central parts of peninsula Florida.

"FLY TIME" AMONG THE COWS

Some Individual Animals Seem to Suffer More Than Others—Various Remedies Suggested.

(By WALTER B. LEUTZ.)

Midsummer is known as "fly time" in the dairyman's calendar. The marked falling off in the milk flow of the dairy cows at this season of the year is looked upon as unavoidable, and is attributed by many to the worry of the stock by flies. The failure to provide an abundance of succulent forage to supplement the parched pastures seems a trifling contributory cause of the lessening milk secretion, compared with the activity of the pesky, ubiquitous fly, especially at milking time.

The flies that are most numerous about cattle are known by their common names of the stable fly and the horn fly.

The stable fly resembles the house fly very much in appearance, but differs in having the mouth parts fitted for piercing the skin and sucking the blood of animals. The eggs of the stable fly are usually laid in horse manure, the female laying from 125 to 150 in a season. The period of development from egg to adult fly is about 15 days.

The horn fly is a new pest and was first noticed in this country about 1886. The first appearance of this fly was the cause of considerable alarm among the cattle men, and the experiment stations of the various states were appealed to for information in regard to the origin and life history of this insect and for suggestions as to agencies for repelling it.

The horn fly is a small, gray fly, very much like the house fly, but smaller, measuring about three-sixteenths of an inch in length. They have the strange habit of settling in great numbers about the base of a horn, which they sometimes completely cover, a habit which gives them their common name. They confine their attention to cattle. They burrow in the hair about the shoulder, the roots of the tail and other portions of the body where they are not easily dislodged. The injury done by the horn fly is by stinging, much like the mosquito. By means of a fine lancet they pierce the skin and suck the blood through the tube or sheath.

Some individual animals suffer more than others and dark colored animals more than light colored. These flies follow cattle to the barn at night and remain with them all the time.

Various remedies have been suggested by good authorities. Destruction of larvae in the droppings by application of lime or the immediate spreading and drying of the same.

Application of tobacco powder to destroy the flies.

Application of one of the following repellents: Ten to fifteen per cent. kerosene in water.

Fish oil with small mixture of carbolic acid. Cottonseed oil, two parts and pine tar one part.

The Searchlight.

It is the course of mortal things that the good should be shadowed by the bad, and virtue shine the brightest when contrasted with vice. Whoever proposes to discourage vice and to vindicate religion, morality and social order against their enemies must unveil crime in all its deformity and place it before the eyes of men in its colossal magnitude; he must diligently explore its dark mazes and make himself familiar with sentiments at the wickedness of which his soul revolts.—Schiller.

Facetious.

"Whenever I have been sure I was right I have stuck to it," said the orator. "How did that plan work out when you had an argument with your wife?" asked a facetious member of the audience.

EAST PICKS THEIR TEAMS IN NATIONAL

Cubs By Improving on Base Running Would Have Chance to Win National League Race

In the east the impression prevails that the National league pennant will be won this season by either the Brooklyn Dodgers or the New York Giants. Other clubs are not even considered. Baseball men and critics contend that these teams contain the class of the league. Brooklyn is rated a notch higher than New York because it is better balanced and has a more effective pitching staff. Give John McGraw the Dodgers' corps of hurlers and the Giants would walk away with the flag, the eastern men say.

Brooklyn, under the able direction of Wilbert Robinson, has developed into an aggressive ball team, more so now than before because the portly leader has his pitchers in fine condition. And he says, twirlers win a flag for a team. If they do not break down on him and the slingshots of the club continues, it is going to be a mighty hard task for any club to oust the Dodgers from first place.

Air tight pitching is not all on which Robinson depends. He is not shy of batting strength. He has the league's foremost batter in Jake Daubert and has able sluggers in Sluggo Wheat, Johnstone, Gushaw, Myers and Miller. There also is a lot of speed among these men. Therefore, if they are favored in any way in the breaks of luck, they can be counted on to stage a desperate battle for the championship.

McGraw's team is difficult to excel in any department except the pitching. That is where he is deplorably weak, and if he can add a little strength there, it is not unreasonable to say that the club that wins the championship will have to defeat his club.

The western teams are the weak sisters of the league, if one listens to the sentiment that prevails in the east. But that is not so. St. Louis and Pittsburgh are hopeless, but the Cubs and Cincinnati are not. Eastern baseball men and critics may think that Brooklyn and New York are to battle for the flag between themselves, but they are likely to find themselves sadly mistaken before the season is two-thirds over.

Cubs and Reds in Race.

One cannot count the Cubs or Reds out of it for the reason that they have the pitchers and hitters. Joe Tinker's hurlers class with any in the league, but they have pitched in hard luck. Records prove this. They have been beaten in twenty-seven games and twelve of these have been lost by one run. If that isn't hard luck, nothing is. Jim Vaughan and Gene Packard are the class of the organization, so far as southpaws are concerned, and Lavender, McConnell, Hendrix, Seaton and Brown mark with the right-handers. All they need is the breaks.

Hitting is not lacking on the team. There is plenty of that. The fact that the Cubs lead the National league in team batting proves this. Williams, Schulte, Zimmerman, Flack, Sauer, Mann, Archer and Fischer are there all the time. With three of them batting more than three or four times a game, the Cubs are nearly all of the rest of them above .250, one cannot but figure the Cubs as dangerous contenders for the pennant.

Cubs Lack in Base Running.

Most of the Cubs' trouble seems to be on the bases. The men are not expert in running and do not expect judgment. Heime Zimmerman's base is the only one who has been on his toes to speak of, and take advantage of the slips of the opponents. The Cubs have not been successful in working the double steal when runners are on first and third, and have not been able to stop it. Their defense against it is weak. Manager Tinker must knock off the rough edges of the work on the bases. He has done it on everything else, and as soon as he improves this branch the strength and prospects of the Cubs will soar.

Cincinnati is to be reckoned with, because it has the speed, hitting, and is now getting its pitching from Toney, Schneider, Dale, Mitchell and others. The team is as strong as the Cubs, and with the latter must stop Brooklyn or New York from taking the flag. St. Louis and Pittsburgh cannot be counted on to do it.

JANESVILLE STRONGS WIN FOURTH CONSECUTIVE GAME

The Janesville Stronges wallowed the Lightweights yesterday afternoon at the fourth ward park to the tune of 14 to 10. This makes the Stronges' fourth straight win and they have issued a challenge to any team in or out of the city under fifty years of age. Batteries for the teams were as follows: Lightweights, Clark and Connors; Stronges, Leary and Hager.

Col. Ripper and Capt. Huston at last appear to be able to enjoy the fruits of their investment of last winter when they paid tremendous sums for Frank Baker and Lee Magee, and agreed to pay each a very large salary.

Recently, each of the pair has been almost in the lemon class, but Magee struck his golf at Detroit, while Baker has not into his stride during the past week. Magee made eight hits in sixteen times at bat during the recent series in Cleveland.

JACK WOOTON WILL PITCH FOR "CARDS" IN MADISON GAMES

Two New Heavers Signed for Cardinals—After Two Games in Madison, Cardinals Tackle Beloit

Two new pitchers were secured by Manager George Caldwell, to appear against the new Madison team, Saturday and Sunday, and for the Beloit series if they look good enough to be pitted against the Fairbanks-Morse erstwhile champions. Jack Wooton, the former Beloit pitcher, has finally consented to pitch for the Janesville club, and the backers of the Cardinals believe that they have obtained the best pitcher the Beloit club had on their string.

Hindman will do the catching for this young and powerful backstop. He looked mighty good in the game he caught Sunday against the Havana Stars. The only fault he showed was a slight weakness with the whip to the bases, but this defect was probably due to the fact that it was the first time he had played with the Cardinals. His strong point is his striking and that is what the Cardinals need to hold their own against Madison and Beloit.

Joe Nelson will remain at first. Besides field in bang-up style, Joe has been doing his share of the hitting. He is a valuable man to have on the team for his peppy and faithful spirit anyway. Denny Blake will captain the team at second, and it is urged that Denny have more to say in the running of the team on the field. He is an able captain having had league experience. Last Sunday it was noticed on the bench, that when a situation arose with runners on base, half of the players would want to over suggestions and even give orders on what play to make. Blake is fully qualified to do all the ordering necessary, and with but one man at the helm on the field, the Cardinals would get along much better. Too much coaching spoils the runs.

Moss, that tall, lanky player who was in the field Sunday, will play short Sunday. Hybert was not shown any disposition for hitting, even though his fielding has been most brilliant. Moss is supposed to be a whirlwind at short and it is to be admitted he can hit better than Hybert. Pesch will stick at third for he has shown the goods in three games here, getting safe clouts in each exhibition.

The other pitcher is named Annear. Not much is known about him, but he is reported to be quite an expert with the moist delivery. Much is expected from Jack Wooton. If one of these two pitchers shows winning ability he along with Red Gansky is likely to be retained for the Beloit games to come.

For the Madison games Ryan, Chamberlain and Sauer of Milwaukee will play. The outfield will have to be strengthened for the game here July second, when the Fairies and Cardinals line-up in their initial clash. Miller will probably recover from his smashed finger by that time and the fans would like to see the little fielder in action again.

This week over at Delavan Chamberlain showed his class as a pitcher. Against the strong Sharon team, who had among their team Pushm Miller and Emmet, Chamberlain won and it is reported to have only allowed two safe hits.

There will be plenty of "doings" up at Madison Saturday and Sunday when the Cardinals open up the new park. The hands of both cities will be on hand to even-up the diamond fray. The Madison mayor, William Sayle will pitch the first ball, to be caught by L. C. Whitet of Edgerton, speaker of assembly. Reservations for over three hundred seats have been made by the various Madison lodges and clubs, and a crowd of three thousand is expected to witness the games. About a hundred from Janesville will witness the game Sunday.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, figures he will be the next titleholder of his class. The little Cadillac owner has a plan in mind. Incidentally, it can be said that his plan is unique. In fact, it is a move to ride Freddie Welsh, present champion, off the pedestal in a bout of the two-decision type. It has been considered next to impossible to accomplish that in any other way than by a knockout.

Wolgast and Manager Larry Lichens have been working like a pair of Trojans to get Welsh into the ring for a year or more, but as they wanted the scrap to be over the two-decision type, they found the Britisher a hard person to line up, for everybody who knows Welsh knows that he isn't hankering for a contest with any one over the derby route.

Freddie knows that he has speed enough to go ten or even twelve rounds to no decision with any of the top heavyweights, but he knows the way he has dodged big money offers for longer bouts he isn't sure he would be the titleholder if he tried the longer route.

Charges come from Cleveland that Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox gave his pitchers instructions when facing Indian batters to "just let 'em off" and that the Red Sox players were pitching them at the heads of Foh's batters all the time.

James Anderson, who has been sent by the czar of Russia to study athletics in the United States, has reached San Francisco in his tour of the country. As a result of his visit the Russians will be taught American athletics by moving pictures. Anderson has secured pictures of many famous performers in action, and will demonstrate the system in that country by this means.

If anybody wants my unbiased diagnosis of what's the matter with the Cubs I would say they have been suffering from a superfluity of bosses, writes I. E. Sanborn. In my experience I have discovered that nobody thinks he knows more about the game than a baseball team than the millionaire member of a board of directors, when as a matter of fact nobody knows less about running a team than the average director of whom there are several in the Chicago National league club, who have been so successful in other lines of endeavor they imagine they can make a mint out of baseball if they only get incorporated into the conduct of the team. Proof of the correctness of my diagnosis can be found in the fact that the farther the Cubs get away from their board of directors the better they play ball, and just now they are in a fair way to climb into the first division if Joe Tinker is given sole command of the ship.

They are calling Bill Rariden of the Giants the best catcher in the National league now. No man on the Grays club did more to make the historic sweep possible than Rariden, save possibly Dave Robertson. Not only did Bill catch sensationally, but his hitting was hard and timely. He is going now at a 200 or more. He is the ideal type of modern catcher. He is fast and light on his feet and can do his own running. He is in the class of Ray Schalk and Wally Schang. He has as good an arm as Jimmy Archer ever owned. He is just a smart backstop as the famous Cub ever was, too. Bill works so fast behind the plate that the Giant infielders used to the slowest of the better Chief Meyers, were all at sea in the first few weeks of the season. Several times they made Rariden look bad by not covering a bag for his throw to catch a man napping.

Daily Thought.

To be bright and cheerful often requires an effort. There is a certain art in keeping ourselves happy; in this respect, as in others, we require to watch over and manage ourselves almost as if we were somebody else.—Ayebury.

If the World Were Perfect.

If all the world were perfect, an intolerable sameness would be stamped upon humanity from one end of the earth to the other. "For the love of God," someone has exclaimed, "let me retain my defects! That is the only thing I really have." Moreover, there are some really quite captivating human defects. But it is important to control them so that they may never become obnoxious.—Anatole Le Braz, in the Outlook.

REB RUSSELL MASTER OF ST. LOUIS BROWNS

Both Cleveland And Brooklyn Held First Positions Through Results of Games Yesterday.

Reb Russell did some southpawing himself at St. Louis Thursday and, as a result the Chicago Americans won 2 to 0 over the Browns, who slipped a double header over Rowland's clan, the day previous. Geo. Sissler, former Michigan athlete to southpaw against the Sox. Rowland then sent his prize left hander: Russell to the mound.

Sissler allowed six hits and Reb Russell went the route giving only two safe blows, one of which was made after two were out in the ninth inning. The game was played in a hurry due to a threatening rain storm, the nine taking an hour and nineteen minutes. The only hits made off Russell was in the third inning when Lavan poked a slow roller and in the ninth Austin batted a clean double. In the eighth the Sox scored when Felsch singled, Weaver sacrificed and E. Collins hit safely.

Cleveland broke its tie for first place with Detroit, by defeating the Tigers, 4 to 3. With one out, one run needed to tie, and two men on bases in the last inning, Burns hit in to a double play, Veach being caught at home. Cleveland drew a double header from Philadelphia at Brooklyn. The scores were 5 to 0 and 8 to 5. The visitors never had a chance in the first game as Pfeffer held them at his mercy, allowing but two hits and no passes. The second game was more of a battle, as the Robins scored three runs on four hits off Bender. The Phillies overcame the lead and went to the front by hammering Smith and Dell. Brooklyn came right back and by bunching their hits scored four runs.

Boston's Braves made it three out of four from New York by giving the Giants their eight extra inning defeat on the home field, by the score of 3 to 1. Neft scored the winning run on a single by Evers. Evers stole home on a triple steal with the other run.

Put Up The Proposi- tion Interestingly About That Real Estate And You Can Sell It

Some people in this town will always tell you that "this is not a good time to sell real estate." It is a persistent delusion with them.

The Where-to-Live problem faces quite as many people today as it ever did. And there are just as many people today who are able, and who intend to solve it by buying homes as there ever were.

If you have property to sell, and will advertise it ADE-QUATELY you can sell it with little delay.

The property must be "good value." And you must tell all of the facts about it in your ads—and tell them INTEREST-INGLY.

Then you must stand fast for a time, if necessary. You must KEEP AT IT. Even if you have to keep it up for some time, the ultimate cost to you for your advertising would appear very trifling as the price paid for your results.

GIVE THE GAZETTE WANT AD A CHANCE TO PROVE TO YOU THAT REAL ESTATE IS NOT SO DEAD IN THIS TOWN AS YOU MAY THINK.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN IN LOVE

Hate little children. Don't stop to pat little children on the street.
Don't pay any attention to babies.

Don't make a fuss about wild flowers.

Don't stop to listen to birds. Ignore calves, little chickens just hatched out, kittens, and puppies.

Don't put on any interest in show windows, women's clothes, lingerie window curtains, draperies or wall paper.

Don't notice cute little bungalows.
Don't affect an interest in kitchen arrangement.

Don't use words like "lovely,"
"lovable," "sweet," "dear," "delicious," or "delightful."

Hate nature.
Loathe scenery.

Don't talk about books you have not read.

Don't say "Well, well!" and "Yes yes," and "Is that so?" every once in a while when your girl is talking to
you. Wait until she gets through and then say: "What did you say?"

Don't tell about how many cold baths you take.

What summer game?

In the Days of Superstition.
The earliest record of a witch being burned to death is dated 1275, the witch confessing that she fed her offspring the flesh of babies. At Toulouse, in 1355, 63 persons were accused of being witches, eight of whom were burned and the others imprisoned for life. In 1324 Petrouilla de Midia was burned at Kilkenny, Ireland, by orders of the bishop of Ossory. Some 75 years later there were wholesale witch prosecutions at Berne, Switzerland.

SCENES OF DESOLATION IN THE SHELL-SWEPT TOWN OF ARRAS

A hole where a house stood; the shattered barracks; a street corner blown away.

These pictures, which have just been received from France, show how utter has been the destruction in the French town of Arras. No other city in France, save Verdun itself, has suffered so much from German shell fire as this beautiful city.

EIGHTEEN YEAR OLD FRENCH YOUTH WINS FAME AS AN AVIATOR

Jean Navarre by His Risky and Daring Stunts in Air Has Brought Down Eighteen German Machines.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, June 23.—Second Lieutenant Jean Navarre of the French Flying Corps has just been officially credited with having destroyed the tenth German machine. Unofficially, he has brought down eighteen; that is to say, that in addition to the ten machines destroyed by his superior officers, he is known to have sent eight more to earth behind the German lines under circumstances that justify the supposition that they were destroyed.

Navarre is the "enfant terrible," or pest, of the French flying corps, with eccentricities that keep his superior officers busy. He had seen most of the world at 15, and had just disembarked from Japan and taken a fortnight in aviation when the war broke out. Too young to be called to the colors, he enlisted and was commissioned in the flying corps. He was an officer of the flying corps at Tours to be incorporated in that service. The captain examined the papers of the real aviator and named him; then asked Navarre, "What do you want?" "Same as he," replied Navarre, and without further formality Navarre found himself on an 80-horse power biplane at the front, regulating the fire of the artillery in November, 1914. It was a service that was little suited to his disposition; he called it "driving a taxicab," and showed his discontent by sending fantastic evolutions on returning from an observation tour that resulted in his being sent to the rear. He presented himself at the aviation camp where men were being trained to fly the new battle-planes and was given opportunity to try one of them. His natural qualities as an acrobat of the air got him immediately one of these new machines.

Daring in Air.

He made his debut in the chase in March, 1915, and in the first expedition attacked one of the German machines that was the most redoubtable at that time, by his skill as a pilot alone dominating his adversary. He flew over him, looped the loop under him, said all around him, risking a dozen times to collide with him, yet never giving the German observer a chance to fire. The German machine finally went to earth a few feet from the French lines without having been hit or damaged in any way. The German pilot had lost his head in the presence of the fantastic evolutions of his adversary and could only inquire after being made prisoner, "What is the world is that phenomenon that fell upon me?" Since that time Navarre has flown successfully in all the different machines in the French aviation service, mastering them all with equal ease and skill and never failing to charge an enemy wherever he found him. His theory of the aerial combat is that at his man, drive right at him regarding the enemy's fire, paying attention only to his own.

Up to date Navarre has waged nearly fifty air battles and has won a great many anecdotes are told of Navarre, some of them perhaps somewhat stretched, a few of them authentic. One of the latter relates to his first battle, which barely escaped setting him thirty days of prison. He had then already acquired the habit, which he still follows, of going out before daylight and finishing his sleep in his machine, so as to be ready to take the air at any moment. On this occasion his aid rang in the morning. "There is a German coming up there."

Offered Rival Drink.

Navarre darted into the air above the river Marne, and made straight for a big German two-seated biplane. He fired a dozen bullets at the pilot who, in trying to shield himself, steered his machine abruptly to one side. Then Navarre placed nine bullets in a taxicab, and showed his discontent by sending fantastic evolutions on returning from an observation tour that resulted in his being sent to the rear. He presented himself at the aviation camp where men were being trained to fly the new battle-planes and was given opportunity to try one

CENTER

Center, June 22.—The excessive rains of the season are surely delaying the farm work to an alarming extent and together with the cool nights and cloudy days are causing considerable anxiety over the corn and tobacco crop prospects, but according to weather experts we are to go with very little moisture for at least five years hence. There is but very little tobacco transplanted in this vicinity.

All that was mortal of the late Mrs. Mary Wells of Footville was tenderly laid to rest in "Bethel cemetery" Wednesday afternoon. Beside her husband the Rev. Milton Wells at one time pastor of the old Center Christian church for eight years who preceded her several years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss one son, Frank Wells of Footville and several grandchildren. Center friends extend sympathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Honeysett and son, Clayton, of Footville and Mrs. Mae Fuller returned Sunday evening from a three weeks trip in the north. Frank Wells of Footville and several relatives and friends and making the trip overland by auto and visiting several places of interest, enroute, among which were Camp Douglas, The Dells of Wisconsin, State Capitol, etc.

Center friends of Mrs. L. Schroder of Footville who has been very poor for several months, are glad to learn she has so far recovered as to be able to visit a few days at the home of her daughter in Center, Mrs. Lena Long.

Mrs. George Apfel and Mrs. Chas. Bennett of Vernon Co., were recent visitors with relatives here. Harry Long accompanied them home for a visit.

The Cemetery association held their annual meeting at the town hall Tuesday P. M. and was well attended. Considerable interest in the care of the cemetery being manifested, as it has been sadly neglected for years back. Let us wake up and give it care and make it the most beautiful spot in Center in due respect to the scores of old settlers who lie there.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson of Beloit, former South Center people, visited Sunday at Frank Splinters.

Oscar Anderson a well known young man in South Center and who has made his home at time with Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Brown has been suffering with tuberculosis in his hand. ## BLESSING OF THE CATCH FOR THE FRENCH FISHERS CELEBRATED THIS SEASON

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, June 23.—The ceremony of "the blessing of the catch" that precedes each spring the departure of the French cod-fishing fleets for Icelandic waters and the banks of Newfoundland, has lost none of its interest or picturesque quality, though the fleets are considerably diminished on account of the war.

The fleets of Fecamp, Paimpol, Saint Malo, Cancale, Saint Servan, and Granville, altogether are sending out about 100 vessels this year as against 300 that composed the combined fleets before the war. The steam trawlers were nearly all requisitioned by the government, and a great many members of the crews have been mobilized. This year 3,000 of these men have been given leave from the army in order to prevent the cod-fishing industry from declining to the point of disaster. The war has shown France the importance of her fisheries, and already ways and means of improving the facilities after the war are being discussed.

While the cod catch will be greatly inferior to the average again this year, there will be plenty of Cancale oysters, for the women have replaced the mobilized men in the important annual catch of seed oysters off the Breton coast.

It is really a man's work, for the harks are heavy and the six sails are neither light nor easily managed. But the women handle them, with as much skill as courage, and the sea-bird's catch of oysters to be taken shoreward for breeding purposes will not fall far short of the average season.

COMMERCE CHAMBER FAVORS RECIPROCAL TRADE RELATIONS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, June 23.—The London Chamber of Commerce at a recent special meeting adopted resolutions favoring reciprocal trading relations between the British Empire and Allied countries after the war; preference for the British Empire in international trade relations; favorable treatment of neutral nations; regulation by tariff or otherwise of trade relations with all "enemy countries" to render impossible a return to pre-war conditions; and stimulating the development of home manufactures and the consequent increased employment of native labor.

and that steps should be taken to prevent dumping (and under valuation) of "enemy goods" into British markets after the war.

It was suggested that a temporary tariff for five years on an ad valorem basis might be applied, subject to negotiations with all parties concerned for the settlement of a permanent tariff with specific duties. It was also agreed that the Home and Dominion governments should act together in the negotiations. Mrs. Earle and Mrs. R. L. Earle and Margaret Katharine and Robert Earle spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. O. Mable.

Miss Marie Lay spent Wednesday in Janesville.

Merely a Matter of Choice.

"Bobby," said the teacher sternly, "do you know that you have broken the eighth commandment by eating James' apple?" "Well," explained Bobby, "I thought I might just as well break the eighth and have the apple as to break the tenth and only cover it."
